NAZIS GAIN CRETE FOOTHOLD

GERMAN GLIDER SOARS OVER MOUNTAIN . . . A REHEARSAL FOR CRETE

International News Photo

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—German troops pouring from the sky on the third day of a mass aerial invasion of Crete have wrested two footholds from the Greek island's British and Greek defenders, the British acknowledged today.

Prime Minister Churchill informed Commons that Nazi parachutists had taken the town of Candia, but that Britihs troops still held the airport there.

The Middle East command in Cairo acknowledged that the town of Malemi was in Nazi hands.

Both reports, however, called the German gains only isolated successes in the fierce, guerrilla-like warfare against German soldiers dropping from the skies in transports and floating down by glider and parachute.

Both also said that attempts by the Germans to put supporting forces ashore from the sea had been frustrated.

NAZIS PAY HEAVILY

From these accounts, the Germans appeared to be paying heavily, both at sea and ashore, to establish themselves on the island which the British have said they will defend "to the death."

Middle East headquarters said German casualties yesterday were higher even than on the first day of the assault, when the skies began raining down Nazis before dawn.

Churchill declared the situation remained in hand generally, but he said "the fighting is continuing with intensity . . . The Germans are using large numbers of air-borne and parachutist troops and these are being increased daily."

HOLD AIRDROME

"This is a somewhat indeterminate moment in the battle," he said and he could "only give a very provisional account" of the fighting.

"Although the situation is in hand," he said, "the Germans have gained some local successes at heavy cost."

"At Malemi airdrome, 10 miles southwest of Canea, it appears that the enemy are now in occupation of the airdrome and of the area to the west of it, but the airdrome is still under our fire."

The Cairo war bulletin said "operations to deal with this situation are now in progress."

Of the naval phase of the invasion, it said merely, that, "as a result of determined action by the Royal Navy, attempts by the Germans to support their air-borne troops by landing from the sea have been dispersed or sunk."

CONVOY INTERCEPTED

In greater detail, Churchill told Parliament:

"Last night the enemy began to try sea-borne landings.

"A convoy making for Crete was intercepted by our naval forces. Two transports and a number of caiques—Greek boats—which probably contained troops intended for landing operations were sunk and an enemy destroyer was also sunk, but during the course of today very much attempts have been made by the

Navy Takes Hand in Coast Strike

OAKLAND, Cal., May 22 (AP)—The Navy took over today in an attempt to reopen strike-bound shipyards on San Francisco bay.

More than 40 Navy and marine corps vehicles were mobilized at the labor temple and carried some 800 shipyard workers to the Moore drydock plant, other to the General Engineering shipyard.

A. F. of L. and CIO machinists closed 11 shipyards 13 days ago. The yards held a half billion dollars worth of defense contracts.

There was no certainty whether any machinists were escorted into plants today. Yesterday groups of A. F. of L. shipyard workers—not machinists, crossed picket lines.

All 1700 machinists are on strike and approximately 13,000 others are idle because of the situation.

John P. Frey, head of the A. F. of L. metal trades union, headed the men on the back-to-work move.

Civilians Forced Out of Gibraltar

LA LINEA, Spain, Facing Gibraltar, May 22 (AP)—Enforced removal of British civilian subjects and foreigners in Britain's clearing of the Gibraltar decks actually began this afternoon when about 800 persons boarded a liner and were escorted away by a cruiser, two destroyers and two submarines.

BRITISH PILOT CHASING HESS AS HE BAILED OUT

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—Rudolf Hess, runaway deputy Fuehrer of Nazi Germany, bailed out of his Messerschmitt May 10 after hot pursuit by an RAF Defiant fighting plane, Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told Commons today.

The Sinclair statement, one of the most revealing official statements so far on the Hess case, thus contained a possible explanation of the bullet holes which the British found in the tail of Hess' wrecked Messerschmitt.

The British Defiant was "hot on the trail" of the Messerschmitt, following it in the darkness, when Hess bailed out, Sinclair said. He did not say, however, whether the Defiant fired on the Messerschmitt.

Previously Parliament was told that the Duke of Hamilton, for whom Hess asked when he parachuted onto the Scottish farm, never met Hess before confronting him as a prisoner of war.

Sinclair declared that Hamilton, 38-year-old "sporting Duke," did not even "recognize the prisoner" when he faced him after obtaining leave from his RAF station.

This statement further heightened the mystery of Hess' coming. One of the German versions of the affair was that Hess hoped to make contact with Hamilton to further a hallucinatory peace plan.

There were reports following this that Hamilton had met Hess before the war on trips to Germany, notably the Olympic Games in 1936.

There had been British reports that Hess was in correspondence with Hamilton before the flight to Scotland. Sinclair denied this.

"When Deputy Fuehrer Hess came down with an airplane in Scotland on May 10 he gave a false name and asked to see the Duke of Hamilton," the Air Secretary said.

"The Duke of Hamilton, being appraised by authorities, visited the prisoner in a hospital.

"Hess then revealed for the first time his true identity, saying that he had seen the duke when he was at the Olympic games at Berlin in 1936.

"The duke did not recognize the prisoner and had never met the deputy fuehrer."

Cheers greeted this passage.

HELGOLAND BLASTED BY RAF BOMBS

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—British bombers which attacked the naval base, docks and center of the town of Helgoland left the German island stronghold in the North sea shrouded in a "swirl of dust and smoke lit here and there by flames," the air ministry news service said today.

A football game was in progress when the bombers swooped over the base yesterday, the report added, but the game quickly broke up and anti-aircraft batteries went into furious action while the bombers swept over at a height of only 40 or 50 feet.

Bombs from one plane made a direct hit on an anti-aircraft battery of four guns, it was said.

Bad weather forced cancellation of all operations last night, but another daylight attack was made yesterday on a power station and oil refinery at Gosmay, near Bethune, in German-occupied France.

The British admitted losing two bombers and six fighters in the two operations, but said five German fighters were shot down.

Showers accompanied by thunder tonight will result in cooler conditions tomorrow, he said.

Street temperatures, he pointed out, are from 3 to 5 degrees higher than the official readings taken at the East Boston airport.

It was the warmest day this year and within two degrees of the warmest day on record for this date established back in 1921.

Martinique Told to Prepare For U. S. Attack, Paris Says

VICHY, May 22 (AP)—Reports given publicity in German-occupied Paris said today that defense forces in the French Caribbean island of Martinique had received order to prepare for an American attack.

The newspaper Le Matin, published in Paris, said yesterday that defense of Martinique would be centered around the fortress holding gold reserves of the Bank of France and that its defenders would blow up the stronghold as a last resort.

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—The Rome radio said last night the French government at Vichy in ordering Martinique authorities to defend that West Indies island at all costs had given them these alternatives concerning the Bank of France's gold stores there:

"1—Transfer it to a new and safer place.

"2—Blow it up if necessary."

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Secretary Hull gave an implied assurance today that Martinique had no reason to fear any imminent United States action against it.

The Secretary of State described as German or pro-German inspired reports published in German-occupied France that Martinique officials had received orders to preparee for an American attack.

Blonde Loses Fight To Bar Confession

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

Climaxing a bitter legal battle and a parade of doctors across the witness stand today, the confession police claim was given them by Mrs. Ruth Steadman was admitted in evidence at her trial for the "hopeless love" slaying of Robert Emery of Natick.

"I find that she is competent and will permit the statements made by her to be introduced as evidence," announced Superior Judge Vincent Brogna after the medical parade.

The doctors' testimony was given with the jury excluded from the courtroom and was to enable Judge Brogna to decide on her competency.

The asserted confession was taken from Mrs. Steadman within a few hours after she had been delivered to Boston City Hospital last Jan. 21, following the finding of Emery's body in her West End apartment.

Immediately following Judge Brogna's announcement that the confession would be admitted, a policeman testified under cross-examination that the blonde, 27-year-old defendant was in a stupor o nthe way to the hospital.

This officer, Coleman Foley of Joy st. station, said he heard another officer in the wagon ask Mrs. Steadman why she had put a rope around Emery's neck and that she replied:

"I didn't want that other woman to have him. I wanted to kill him."

Defense Counsel Edward F. Flynn leaped upon this statement when he took Officer Foley in cross-examination and brought from the officer that he did not testify in lower court to Mrs. Steadman's saying:

"I wanted to kill him."

QUIZZED ON ROPE

Earlier in today's session, another policeman, Special Officer Daniel F. Donovan of Joy st. station, testified that he saw no rope in Mrs. Steadman's apartment, but had heard about a rope in conversation with still another policeman, Dennis Mahoney.

Officer Donovan was asked then by Flynn:

"Did you ask the defendant, 'What did you buy the rope for?' and she said to you, 'I bought the rope to dry some clothes out with'?"

"Yes," the officer replied, "and I said that in lower court, I believe."

Q—Did you see the rope since? A—No, I haven't seen it at any time.

Gathering as early as three hours before the court's opening, crowds stormed the "hopeless love" mur-

RUTH TOYS WITH RING, PERHAPS SUITOR'S GIFT

By ALICE BISSELL
Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

Ruth Steadman came into the courtroom for the fourth day of her trial, and on the fourth finger of each slender, white hand was a ring.

It may be that the ring on the left hand is her wedding ring . . . the ring that bound her for life to Kenneth Steadman.

Alice Bissell

Could it be that the one on her right hand is the ring which Robert Emery gave to her? . . . the ring she accepted for a love stronger and longer than life . . . even through death?

Perhaps the shining band she fingered gently and gazed at during the morning session is the very one mentioned in a letter she wrote to Emery on October 7, 1940, from her home in Crafton, Penn.

"Lord, darling," she had written . . . "I love you so much that nothing else matters. I am glad I have the ring that you kissed."

"I had the finest case of jitters when I came home. Kenneth thought the ring was cute. I was sure he was going to ask if you had given it to me."

MORE RELAXED

Who knows? Maybe her caressing of the ring on the right hand was only an unconscious gesture.

But it seemed today Ruth Steadman was more relaxed than during the first three days of the trial, as though from a glance at the ring and a touch of it with her fingertips, she still held uppermost in her mind thoughts of the man she is accused of slaying.

Mrs. Steadman again appeared in a new costume, a light, slate-blue tailored dress that brought out the sparkling blue of her eyes.

She wore the same navy straw hat that completed her pink ensemble yesterday and carried a large navy pocketbook.

Strikingly absent today were her habits so familiar to the crowds in the courtroom . . . the fixed stare on the floor in front of her, the nervous blinking of her eyes, the set jaw, biting her lip.

A softer look had come over her

Firebug Scare Hits Malden; 4 More Blazes

Malden suffered its worst firebug scare in years today when four blazes broke out in rapid succession in the same district, and police said they appeared to have been set.

Two similar fires were discovered less than 24 hours earlier, one in an apartment house.

Uniformed police and extra detectives joined in the search for a firebug after Patrolman Vincent Sullivan found stuffed paper ablaze in the side door of a garage in Florence st., Malden.

Three similar fires were discovered in the same neighborhood in the previous half hour, one under the underpass of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the intersection of Florence st.; another in a rubbish pile behind a garage in Henry st. and the third in a frame door of an automobile store in Exchange st.

All bore similar evidence of being prepared for firing, and police were of the opinion it was the work of an adult. The fires broke out between 1:10 a. m. and 1:40 a. m., and officers said a boy would have been noticed if walking the streets at that hour.

The apartment house fire was quickly extinguished and once again paper was found stuffed in the door of the dwelling in Salem st. A short time later another wad of paper was found burned out in the railroad station at Oak Grove.

SHOWGIRL BRIDE DIES IN PENTHOUSE PLUNGE

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—After calling "good-bye, John," to her husband of eight month, blonde Frances Stautz Huppman, former show girl and beauty contest winner, fell or jumped from the terrace of a fifth-floor penthouse apartment at West 75th st., late last night.

Dancer Dies in Leap

She was impaled on a picket fence in the courtyard. She died later in Roosevelt Hospital. She had suffered fractures of the left arm, both legs and skull, and her right arm had to be amputated.

Her husband, John Huppman, sales supervisor of a bottling equipment company, told detectives that he and his wife had quarreled and that when he went to answer the phone in the midst of the argument she ran out on the terrace and leaped over the wall, calling out her goodby over her shoulder.

Huppman said that she was born in Yonkers, that she won a series of beauty contest titles before she was 15 and subsequently appeared in the front line of choruses for Florenz Ziegfeld, George White, Billy Rose and others.

In 1938 she was married in Elkton, Md., to George Herndon, a cabaret singer, after a four-hour courtship in Atlantic City. The marriage was annulled the same year.

MOTHER, SON ROW AIRED IN WILL CONTEST

SALEM, May 22—How their mother allegedly criticized James Dolan, headmaster of the Beethoven school in West Roxbury, for visiting the aunt who left him the bulk of her $28,000 estate, was related by Arthur Dolan of Randolph, in superior court today.

Taking the stand for relatives seeking to break the will of Mrs. Lucy McCarthy who died in Lynn last Sept. 8, Arthur Dolan testified that his mother was provoked when she discovered James was visiting Mrs. McCarthy. She told James, Arthur said:

"James, I can't understand how a son of mine, a son for whom I sacrificed so much to send to normal school when your father was a poor shoe worker and we gave up so much to make a teacher out of you, I can't understand how you would betray me so!"

Arthur also related how James came to the Randolph home where Mrs. Dolan lived, after her death and offered to sell some of the mother's personal belongings to the young woman who later became Mrs. Arthur Dolan.

He said that James came into the room with a pair of his mother's overshoes in his hand and offered to sell them for 25 cents.

Earlier in the case it was brought out that James had prevented the burial of Mrs. McCarthy's husband in the family lot. When James took the stand he admitted doing so but blamed his mother for forcing him to prevent the burial.

Following Mrs. Arthur Dolan's testimony, both sides in the case, which is being heard by Judge David F. Dillon and jury, rested.

WORLD FREEDOM RESTS ON U. S. SHIPS, SAYS F. D.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt predicted today "more and faster ships will be built" in this country and "they will carry through the open waters of the seven seas implements which will help destroy the menace to free peoples everywhere."

In a letter to Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, the President said:

"I am glad of an opportunity to send a maritime message to the American people. Today as never before in our history, our merchant marine is vital to our national welfare. I do not mean vital merely in the conventional sense that it makes an important contribution, but in the stronger sense that it is a crucially decisive factor in our continued existence as a free people.

"If we are going to keep away from our shores the forces that have convulsed the Old World and now menace the New, the job will be done in large measure by the ships and the sailors of the Merchant Marine and by the working men who build the ships and supply them. If they fail, the whole effort fails.

"All earnest hard working Americans, who spend the best part of their lives providing for the security and happiness of those they love, know that precious security and happiness depend exactly on the success of that effort.

"I know the effort will not fail: that more and faster ships will be built, manned by trained American seamen, and that they will carry through the open waters of the seven seas implements that will help destroy the menace to free peoples everywhere."

The President's letter was read at ceremonies at the Washington Navy Yard in connection with ceremonies observing Maritime Day.

Shipyards of the nation were jammed with a gigantic building program as the nation observed Maritime Day—the 122d anniversary of the Savannah's departure on the first successful transatlantic voyage by steam.

Stimson Flays Neutrality Act

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Secretary Stimson assailed the neutrality act today as "a violation of our most sacred and important tradition of foreign policy, freedom of the seas."

Like Secretary of the Navy Knox who yesterday termed the act barring American shipping from war zones a "terrible blunder," Stimson stressed he was speaking as an individual rather than as Secreary of War.

Roosevelt Pens May 27 Chat

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt began work today on the May 27 fireside radio chat which may be a momentous pronouncement on international affairs.

The half-hour address, to be delivered from the White House in the presence of the diplomatic representatives of the other American Republics, will center on the world situation.

Death Chair Revival Of Cop Killer Fails

They tried to bring life back to the body of 30-year-old Joseph Brooks after he was electrocuted last April 22 for the murder of a Milton policeman, it was learned today.

His body was rushed direct from the chair in Charlestown State Prison to Massachusetts General Hospital, where Medical Examiner William J. Brickley and Dr. Robert H. Schwab worked over it for an hour and 10 minutes.

This was confirmed today by Dr. Brickley who said the experiment had been performed to prove conclusively that electrocution results in final, irreclaimable death.

Dr. Brickley told the Massachusetts Medical Society of the experiment. He did not mention at that time the name of the killer whose body he used. Today he confirmed it was Brooks.

Brooks, it was Joseph T. Brooks learned, was buried only last Tuesday—nearly a month after his electrocution. His grave is in a potter's field near the Concord Reformatory.

No one had claimed his body—although at the time of his trial two sisters, living in New York, had appealed to the Governor for a commutation of sentence.

Dr. Brickley said today that while he had always been convinced an electrocuted man was dead, he had wanted to prove the fact conclusively, ever since a plan to resuscitate the first man ever electrocuted in Massachusetts had been frustrated by the warden, who kept the body for 12 hours, or more.

A group of doctors, backed by outraged citizens who objected to the chair as a form of capital punishment, had set up a medical laboratory at that time in rented rooms next to the prison.

DR. WM. J. BRICKLEY
Fails to Revive Killer

1901 CASE RECALLED

They planned to get the body of Luigi Storti immediately after electricity had been shot through it in the first state-decreed death of its kind. That was in 1901.

But the warden balked the plan. He kept the body.

Years after controversy continued as to whether Storti actually was dead. Men had received electric shocks before and had been revived. Perhaps there was still some life in Storti. Maybe he was buried alive. People didn't know too much about electricity.

Today Dr. Brickley was able to say Storti was unquestionably dead—and so was Brooks—and so was everyone else legally declared so following electrocution in the chair.

TESTS ON BODY

He said 50 minutes after Brooks' removal from the chair the body was taken in an ambulance to Dr. Brickley's laboratory in Massachusetts General Hospital.

There a brain-wave machine was placed over the killer's head in an effort to detect activity in the brain. There was none.

A stimulant was injected into the heart muscle to see if it could be revived. It could not.

The body was massaged in the manner of a man who has been drowned. It failed.

Ten other tests were applied, but none of them revealed a sign of life.

The brain-wave machine, Dr. Brickley said, would have shown had their been one-millionth of a volt of electrical energy in Brooks' brain.

NO SPARK OF LIFE

The fact that it did not was interesting, Dr. Brickley stated, because he had wondered whether the human body would not react like a storage battery, which stores up electricity when current is passed through it.

But no sparks were given off by Brooks' body even at the start of the tests.

Dr. Brickley said from 1500 to 2500 volts had been shot through Brooks' body. Men have been known to receive such a shock and live. But Brick'ey said it was not the volts but the amperes—from 6 to 12—that killed Brooks.

The amperes, he said, kept Brooks glued to the chair, so there was no break in the current of electricity.

Brooks received four separate shocks, the first at 12:03 a. m. He was declared dead at 12:10.

Soldier Injured In Crash Here

One soldier was injured and three soldier companions shaken up today when their car collided with a dump truck at the corner of Harrison ave. and Essex st.

All were being given a lift to the Army Base in South Boston to catch the early boat for Ft. Standish in Boston harbor, where they are stationed as members of the 241st C. A., Battery K.

They were taken to City Hospital, where Sergt. James Coyne was held for treatment for a possible fractured right knee and Sergt. Joseph Los, Corp. Hugo Picard and Pvt. Robert Turcott were released after treatment for a shaking up.

The soldiers were passengers in the car of Tony Tarquino, Saratoga st., East Boston, a member of a radio team known as Tony and Juanita, who was on his way to meet relatives at the South Station. Louis W. Murphy, Columbus ave., Dorchester, was driver of the truck.

Slow-Poke Car Drivers Face Arrest in Delaware

DOVER, Del., May 22 (AP)—The State of Delaware began an experiment today in speeding up slow-poke motorists while safety authorities disputed value of the new traffic regulation.

It is now a misdemeanor to drive a motor vehicle "at such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with the law."

"The minimum-speed law will be enforced only where traffic is heavy and conditions are hazardous," explained Norman R. Purnell, state police superintendent.

"Under such conditions when an officer sees a slow driver holding up traffic he will be required to advise the driver to move faster. If the driver fails to comply, he will face arrest and prosecution."

The new law, approved by the Legislature a month ago and effective today, also increases the maximum speed on dual-lane highways from 45 to 55 miles an hour and 50 miles on others. The maximum remains 25 miles an hour in business districts and 35 in residential areas.

Lloyd R. Lewis, president of the Delaware branch of the American Automobile Ass'n, hailed the minimum-speed phase of the law as likely to promote safety and reduce accidents on the highways.

William J. Lackey, president of the Delaware branch of the American Motorists' Ass'n, said, however, he was not sympathetic toward the experiment.

"Every man who pays his motor tax is entitled to the road," he asserted. "Older people naturally drive more slowly. I do not believe the slow driver is a menace except on the very narrow roads."

Mumblers Denied Witness Fees at Murder Trial

U. S. BOARD TO ACT AGAIN IN COAL ROW

By The Associated Press

The National Mediation Board prepared today to act for a second time in the soft coal wage controversy, while in some other labor disputes tension appeared to be easing.

Contract negotiations between the CIO United Mine Workers and the Southern Appalachian operators were broken off in New York yesterday, with both sides issuing sharp public statements.

TO APPEAR BEFORE BOARD

The union and southern operators were to appear before the mediation board at Washington tomorrow morning, and the northern operators and the union Saturday.

A longshoreman's strike at Buffalo, N. Y., and a walkout of 5000 laborers at an Army shell-loading plant being built near Ravenna, O., were reported ended. The AFL longshoremen switched from a previous stand and decided to accept a pay increase of 7½ cents an hour which had been awarded by a federal arbitrator.

The Ravenna laborers agreed to return to work for 10 days while their demands for wage increases were negotiated.

A threat of a strike vote, possibly by Monday, arose at the Los Angeles factory of North American Corp., where CIO employes are seeking a wage increase. The company has 11,000 employes, and is making planes for the United States and Britain.

STATE BOND ISSUE CUT FROM BUDGET

Rejection of $5,300,000 in bond issues urged by Gov. Saltonstall and a recommended increase of gasoline tax payments to cities and towns from $9,600,000 to $10,000,000 featured the revised record-breaking biennial budget of $183,744,829 for 1941-1942 reported to the Legislature today by the Ways and Means Committee.

The committee eliminated bond issues for $2,400,000 for construction of a hospital for the insane, $1,800,000 for highway construction and $1,400,000 for improvement of the Pondville Hospital.

Speaker Herter of the House said the budget would be read at today's session and that debate would begin Tuesday.

HIGHWAY RESERVE

Although eliminating the $1,800,000 highway bond issue, the committee set up a reserve in the highway fund of $850,000, to be added to a $5,400,000 federal appropriation for construction of acess roads and defense highways now pending Congress.

The committee severely criticized Gov. Saltonstall for allegedly attempting to revive the so-called "kindergarten class" of deputy income tax assessors in the State Income Tax Division, and for the fifth time eliminated appropriations for additional men in that department.

The rejected appropriations and bond issues, in addition to the boost in highway fund payments to cities and towns, reduces the net State tax burden for the two years to $13,000,000, or $6,000,000 in 1941 and $7,000,000 in 1942. The Governor had presented a net tax burden of $6,900,000 for 1941 and $7,400,000 for 1942.

"KINDERGARTEN CLASS"

The committee's criticism of the "kindergarten class" of the income tax division stated that since 1935, successive governors had appointed 25 deputy income tax assessors against the recommendations of the tax commissioner.

Referring to repeated efforts by the committee to eliminate the "windergarten," the report points out that 21 of these deputies were dropped in August 1939.

'Yet in December of the following year 10 new men were added to the divisional payroll and the 'kindergarten' was functioning again," the committee reports.

Highlights of the committee's budget revisions are as follows:

The payment of $2500, instead of $200, this year to legislators and $500 expenses for next year. This "increase" still falls $1000 short of what legislators received before biennial sessions were inaugurated.

Continuation of emergency taxes on incomes, inheritances, liquor and cigarettes until June, 1943.

A recommended cut of $17,000 in the $500,000 budget of Commr. of Public Safety Eugene M. McSweeney.

The annual payment of $100,000 to Boston instead of $50,000 to help meet the deficit of the Sumner tunnel.

A $250,000 cut in the $750,000 asked by Gov. Saltonstall for an emergency fund during the off legislative year.

A general annual cut of $1,000,000 in departmental expenses is recommended.

Elimination of a $12,000 item for regilding the dome of the State House.

Proposed expenditure of $25,000 for a radio survey cut to $5000.

Cross Charges Hurled During Bridges' Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22 (INS)—Charges of intimidation of witnesses by both sides, and a new surprise attack on the testimony of a hostile government witness, highlighted a heated session of the Harry Bridges deportation hearing today.

Maj. Lemuel B. Schofield, chief of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, took the stand as a belated witness for the government, in a startling broadcast against James O'Neil, former CIO publicity director and recalcitrant government witness, who is now serving a county jail term for contempt.

O'Neil, brought to the stand after being arrested for ignoring two subpoenas, testified that he knew nothing to link Bridges with the Communists, and that he had never given the FBI damaging evidence against Bridges.

Later, the government introduced a statement allegedly made by O'Neil to G-men, containing allegations against the Australian-born longshore leader.

Maj. Schofield testified that on last April 22 he and Asst. Director Earl Connelly of the FBI had interviewed O'Neil at the FBI offices in San Francisco.

"O'Neil told us that he and Bridges were both Communists," Schofield said, "and that he was the only man who had visual evidence of Bridges' membership—that he had once seen his Communist party book.

"He said he didn't want to testify, however, because Bridges had been a close friend of his, and further that he was afraid he'd lose his job with a Marysville radio station."

Schofield's testimony confirmed the O'Neil statement which the government claims was made last October.

ECUADOR LEADER DIES

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 22 (AP)—Alberto Guerrero Martinez, who served two terms as President of Ecuador, was dead today. He was prominent in Liberal party affairs and served in Congress.

4 BILLION MORE FOR U. S. ARMS SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, May 22 (INS)—Defense officials pressing the War Department seek an additional $4,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 for planes and tanks over and above the already huge procurement programs if these weapons, congressional sources declared today.

This would run the nation's present 36,000-a-year plane goal could be stepped up to around 100,000 a year and at the output of tanks could be tripled.

The plan, if it is carried out, would be to tack the enormous increase onto the regular War Department appropriation bill.

This bill already totals $6,500,000,000, and if the proposed plane-tank addition is made it will swell almost to the record high $12,000,000,000 armament bill voted during the World War.

Some Congressmen who have learned of the proposal declare it must mean officialdom expects this country to be at war soon while others interpret it to mean Britain's plight necessitates the tremendous step-up.

War Department officials were quoted as telling Congressmen they did not know the reasons back of the request—which was attributed to the Office of Production Management.

CANADIANS INTERNED

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—Fifteen of the crew of 22 of the former Great Lakes Canadian freighter Portadoc are interned in French Guinea following the torpedoing of their vessel off the West African coast April 7, London sources said.

ANTI-CONVOY GROUP TO FORCE SHOWDOWN

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 22—The anti-convoy fight, temporarily suppressed in the Senate, will be raised in the House next week in a drive to force a vote on the issue through a petition to discharge the Foreign Affairs Committee, it was disclosed today.

The House anti-convoy bloc, it was learned, had quietly laid plans for a spectacular movement in the belief that they can command enough strength to force a vote over objections of the House leadership.

The plan is for Representative Curtis (R.) of Nebraska, to place on the speaker's desk a petition to call his anti-convoy bill to the floor for a vote on consideration. If 218 members, a bare majority, sign the petition, the showndown can be obtained.

The Curtis petition, which will become valid after his resolution has been pigeon-holed in the Foreign Affairs committee for 30 days without action, calls for a vote on a resolution prohibiting use of armed force "for transporting, delivering or convoying articles or materials to belligerent countries."

"A petiton will be filed and we will make a drive for signatures," said Rep. Mundt (R.) of South Dakota, a leader of the anti-convoy group. "We think we can bring the issue to a vote and pass a resolution.

"We think all but five or six Republicans will go along, and we know many Democrats will. I have been informed that there has been quite a change of sentiment against convoys among Southern members.

"We will press the issue even though it was decided not to immediately seek a vote on the Tobey anti-convoy resolution in the Senate."

Rep. Luther Johnson (D.) of Texas, member of the foreign affairs committee, accepted the challenge.

"The House will not adopt any resolution prohibiting the use of convoys to get lease-lend goods to Britain," Johnson said.

"My mail and my information indicates that sentiment in the South for 'all out' aid to Britain is gaining. They are ahead of the President and Congress on the issue."

CIO Seamen Balk At Red Sea Cruises

NEW YORK, May 22 (INS)—In addition to a German warning that the Red Sea is a combat zone, President Roosevelt's proposal to open the disputed body of water to American aid-to-Britain shipping, today faced another check—possibility that crews cannot be found to man the vessels he would send.

"We are opposed in principle to sending ships into danger zones," Joseph N. Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union reported today. "In this case the government is daring the Germans to sink our ships. It is more dangerous than any previous case.

"If more people would keep their mouths shut we might get more of our men to sail, but there is too much propaganda. Some of our men, as individuals, dislike to travel into danger zones. However, although we are opposed in principle, we see no out."

Curran said that before any of his members sign up, there will have to be better assurances of financial protection than they now have.

Up till the present time, the Pacific district of the A. F. of L. union has been setting a $75 bonus for Suez ports and $45 for the Red sea or Persian gulf. The NMU has had a bonus arrangement of $50 for Suez ports and $35 for the Red sea and Persian gulf.

En route to Britain today via Clipper plane is Mrs. Faith Bennett, wife of screen writer Charles Bennett, to serve as a pilot in the Air Transport Auxiliary. A former actress, Mrs. Bennett holds American, English and Mexican flying licenses. Her duties will consist of flying light bombers, training planes and fighters from factories in England to RAF bases.

Hitler and Duce Pact 2 Years Old

BERLIN, May 22 (AP)—Today is the second anniversary of the signing of the historic pact in which Germany and Italy linked their futures in a military alliance.

The treaty, signed in Hitler's presence by German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop and Italian Foreign Minister Ciano, is effective for 10 years.

The two countries agreed to pool all their military and economic resources in the event of a war in which either might become engaged.

British Seize French Oil Cargo

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—British naval patrols have intercepted the 13,467-ton French tanker Sheherazade, en route to French North Africa with an oil cargo from the United States, it was made known today, and it was understood this was done with the full consent of Washington.

The ship was in the Atlantic bound for Casablanca, French Morocco.

British authorities granted the Sheherezade a navicert "some time ago" to carry the cargo, it was stated, but "actions of the last day or so by the Vichy government, particularly in Syria, had a very sharpening effect, not only in London but in Washington."

The vessel, one of the largest oil tankers in the world, left Houston, Tex., on May 10 for an unannounced port. She was built in 1935 and was in the Gulf trade with France before the war.

Clawed Trainer Blames Lion's Love for Lady Tiger

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (AP)—Animal Trainer Fritz Olson, clawed on the right hand by a lion during a Ringling Bros. circus performance, had a ready explanation for behavior the beast.

"Bottong is not a bad lion," he said. "He's just in love with the lady tiger which sits across from him. It's spring and he's not himself."

NAZIS GAIN FOOTHOLD IN CRETE

enemy to carry an army into Crete and a convoy of 30 vessels was discerned by our forces this morning and was presumably attacked by them."

At the same time, the RAF Middle East communique said in Cairo that British bombers had renewed heavy raids on German-held Greek airdromes, springboards for the aerial assault on Crete.

British military men expressed belief that the worst of the struggle for the Mediterranean island stronghold, seat of Greek King George II's government since its flight from Athens, still was to come.

SMOKE RUSE FAILS

Declaring that Germany's military prestige demands swift, decisive action, London sources said they believed the Nazis would fall back on their familiar blitz pattern and unleash an all-out bombing attack in an attempt to blast a path for fresh waves of "sky troops."

(An International News Service dispatch from London said relays of Stuka dive-bombers and swarms of high-altitude Heinkels hammered Anglo-Greek defense forces in Crete today after a new Nazi ruse to speed invasion of the island ended in failure. The dispatch said scores of Stukas poured smoke bombs on defensive positions in an effort to "blind" the defenders. But the prevailing Mediterranean wind blew the smoke away before it could serve its purpose and the ruse accomplished nothing.)

The British acnkowledged the possibility that "comparatively strong detachments" of the invaders who have floated down on the island during the past two days might still be holding out in some areas, but declared all key points remained in control of the British-Greek defenders.

The German agency DNB said a British battleship, five cruisers and a destroyer were badly damaged in Nazi air raids as they engaged in the defense of Crete.

SUEZ BATTLE SEEN

The assault on Crete was described in military circles as "the first round in an all-out battle for Suez," and the supposed belief the Germans were operating on a precise schedule which envisioned the capture of the island before the end of the week.

Official sources made no attempt to estimate German casualties thus far, but Cairo dispatches said that 1000 Nazis were killed or captured in the first day's fighting alone.

Estimates on the number of troops the Germans had actually landed on the island varied, but authoritative sources said that a full air division numbering 7000 men certainly was involved.

(A British broadcast from London, picked up in New York by CBS, said the Germans are now drawing on a "second division" in an effort to conquer Crete and will attempt "to put tanks ashore from boats.")

It was believed the heaviest fighting had taken place around Canea, on Suda Bay, and Malemi, which is situated 12 miles to the south and is the site of one of the island's few good airports.

Crete Doomed, Britain Next, Is Berlin's View

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 22—The fate of Crete is "already sealed," unofficial German sources declared today as belief spread in Berlin that the Nazi offensive actually is a full dress rehearsal for invasion of England.

Military spokesmen said "other things will have to be taken care of" before the Nazi legions are sent across the English channel. But the general impression in Berlin was that Crete would serve as an example of what England faces.

Successful German landings have been made at three separate points on the island, according to Berlin information.

Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen admitted heavy fighting had been going on for three days in Crete. But they insisted German parachute and airplane troops, reinforced by navay units and backed by incessant attacks by the Luftwaffe, had gained a firm foothold the very first day of hostilities "and have never relinquished an inch."

Officially, the German high command remained silent. The German public has not yet been told even that Crete was attacked.

According to a report, the attacking German forces have obtained suitable air field space, access to the sea and advantageous "attack" positions against the British and Greeks in Crete.

JAP CHIEFS CONFER

TOKIO, May 22 (AP) — Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Minister of War Lieut.-Gen. Eiki Tojo conferred with Emperor Hirohito at the imperial palace today, presumably in connection with the war in China.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

RUTH STEADMAN LOSES COURT FIGHT TO BAR CONFESSION

der trial today, many carrying lunches and some coming from as far away as Worcester.

Following Officer Donovan's brief appearance under cross-examination there was a bench conference, and then Judge Brogna excused the jury for the parade of doctors and the establishment of Mrs. Steadman's condition after the slaying, and thus her legal ability to make a confession.

DOCTORS CALLED

Atty. Flynn called to the witness stand Dr. David Sherman, resident physician of Boston City Hospital. Then came Dr. John P. Rhatigan, and later Dr. Daniel Badel, neurologist and psychiatrist. Both are attached to the City Hospital.

Atty. Flynn questioned all of them as to their education and length of practice, then on their examination of Mrs. Steadman when she was brought to the hospital.

He asked them about their findings, their conclusions and opinions as the result of their examinations.

The doctors also were questioned by Judge Brogna, and were subjected to a searching cross-examination by Asst. Distt.-Atty Edward M. Sullivan.

At one time in the cross-examination, when Sullivan was shaking his fist in the witness' face, Atty. Flynn said:

"Don't swing on him."

Once, when Sullivan concluded questioning one of the doctors, in retort to a remark made by Flynn, the prosecutor snapped:

"You're the big guy from the heel city."

TELL OF FINDINGS

All the doctors testified that they found the defendant was suffering from acute phenobarbital poisoning and ethyl alcohol poisoning, and that she was dehydrated.

RULES ON CONFESSION

Dr. Abraham Myerson, well known psyhiatrist, testified it was his opinion, from listening to testimony of previous doctors, that on Jan. 21, when Mrs. Steadman went to Boston City Hospital, her mentality was impaired due to the action of powerful drugs and alcohol on the brain, and to dehydration.

She was not capable or qualified to take an oath at that time, Dr. Myerson testified.

At this point Judge Brogna ordered the jury brought back.

"I find that she is competent and will permit the statements made by her to be introduced as evidence."

Flynn asked an exception.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Sullivan then called Patrolman Coleman Foley.

Foley testified he overheard a conversation between Mrs. Steadman and Dr. Jacob Shapiro in the bedroom.

CALLED FOR BOBBY

Q—What did you hear? A—I heard Dr. Shapiro ask her what happened?

Q—What did she say? A—She said something about pills.

Q—What else did he say? A—He asked her how many she took.

Q—What did she say? A—I didn't hear her reply.

Then Foley testified Mrs. Steadman was taken to the hospital. Foley said he and Officer Edward Dervin were in the ambulance with her.

Q—Did you hear her say anything? A—Yes.

—Tell us what it was. A—She kept calling: "Bobby, Bobby, Bobby."

Q—Anything else? A—Yes. Dervin asked her what happened.

Q—What did she say? A—She said. "I put a rope around his neck."

Q—Anything else? A—Officer Dervin said: "Why?" She said: "I didn't want that other woman to have him." Then she started to cry.

Q—Anything else? A—No.

Q—You testified before the grand jury? A—Yes.

Q—I show you this and ask you if it refreshes your recollection. (Sullivan showed Officer Foley a transcript of grand jury evidence.) A—Yes.

Q—After she said: "I didn't want that other woman to have him," did she say anything else? A—Yes. She said: "I didn't want that other woman to have him. I wanted to kill him."

Then Atty. Flynn took over cross-examination.

PATROLMAN GRILLED

Q—She was in a stupor, wasn't she? A—Yes.

Q—Now you testified in lower court and you were asked by Capt. Donovan: "On the way to the hospital did you hear a conversation?" and you answered yes, and you were asked to tell what that conversation was and you said she started to call: "Bobby, Bobby, Bobby?" A—Yes.

Q—Then you were asked what further conversation there was and you said that you heard Officer Dervin ask her what happened and she replied: "I put a rope around his neck" and then Dervin asked her: "What about the pills?" and she started to cry. Then you were asked if there was any further conversation and you said there was not. Do you remember that? A—Yes.

Q—Well, who have you talked to since then about this case? A—Mr. Sullivan.

Q—You didn't tell Capt. Donovan in lower court what you just told when you were asked to give all the conversation that took place? A—I answered it as Capt. Donovan asked it.

USES POINTER

(At this point Atty. Flynn had a pointer in his left hand, the lower court testimony in his right, and he was beating on the testimony with the pointer.)

Q—Well, you remember saying there was no further conversation in lower court? A—Yes.

Q—Did you go into the bathroom when you were in that apartment? A—No.

Q—Did you look in? A—No.

Q—I think you said you put your hand on the defendant when you went into the bedroom and she groaned. A—Yes.

Atty. Flynn excused the witness and there was a bench conference, after which a recess was called.

Britain Tries to Buy Idle Foreign Ships

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Great Britain is negotiating with Latin American nations for the purchase of some of the 100-odd refugee foreign merchantmen now idle in hemisphere ports.

The negotiations parallel existing discussions between Sir Arthur Salter, chief of the British shipping mission, and the U. S. Maritime Commission, whereby Britain hopes to obtain some merchant tonnage when the United States formally requisitions the 54 foreign ships now under surveillance here.

Hundreds of Germans Reported in Morocco

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—An authoritative source said today the Germans recently established several missions of several hundred men at various points in French Morocco.

It was reported there also had been a constant infiltration of Germans in close contact with the missions, which are divided into two sections—military-naval and industrial-economic.

Goldwyn Denies Bette Davis on Strike

HOLLYWOOD, May 22 (INS)—Film Star Bette Davis is definitely not one any strike, Producer Sam Goldwyn said today in epiking rumors the actress had "taken a Hess."

Miss Davis, Goldwyn said, was taken ill on the lot several days ago.

Hundreds Hunt Boy, 3; Mystery Shrouds Case

WOODSTOCK, Md., May 22 (AP)—State Police, aided by more than 150 volunteers, searched woodlands and underbrush on a farm near here today for 3-year-old Eldridge Albright who disappeared while at play yesterday afternoon 300 yards from his home.

Mrs. Cynthia Miller, the child's grandmother, sitting on a porch, heard Eldridge scream three times, the cries getting fainter each time, and hurried to the spot where he had been playing with his police dogs.

Finding no trace of him, she returned to notify his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Albright, and sent the boy's 7-year-old sister, Mary, to telephone police.

Officers and neighbors combed the immediate area, including waters of a small stream near where the child had been playing.

Police said tracks of the child were found in the sand by the stream for about 50 yards and "then mysteriously disappeared." Bloodhounds brought from the District of Columbia penal farm at Lorton, Va., picked up the trail during the all-night search, followed it approximately three-quarters of a mile and then lost it in the water.

Autohrities were further mystified when one of the lad's two police dogs, "Spooky," returned home about midnight. The other dog disappeared with Eldridge.

As the hunt widened today the searching party grew to several hundred volunteers spread over a wide area of Howard County. They included a group of Jesuit priests, conscientious objectors from the nearby Patapsco "Co" camp, and Boy Scouts.

face, and she often gazed at the ceiling above her, or out of the courtroom window where the sky was the same blue of her eyes. They were not the troubled ones that yesterday had to face Ruth Emery, the widow of her lover.

Mrs. Steadman appeared as interested in the testimony today as the intense spectators behind her. She was alert, and her eyes darted from the judge, to Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan, to various people who entered the courtroom late.

Often she relaxed in the corner of the seat with her right arm outstretched on the side of the dock. She tapped her newly-polished fingernails on the wood, then looked calmly, almost peacefully at the ring on the fourth finger of her right hand.

New Bedford Textile Strike Is Averted

NEW BEDFORD, May 22—Strike of 15,000 textile workers here was averted today when state labor officials and union representatives announced they had reached an agreement during an all-night conference.

The complicated labor situation, which involves a jurisdictional dispute between unions of the Central Labor Union and the Textile Council, both of which claim control of some locals and their members, will be arbitrated, according to Brig.-Gen. Charles H. Cole of the state arbitration board.

She Darns Socks On Phone Receiver; Neighbors Darn Her

MANORVILLE, N. Y., May 22 (INS)—The New York Telephone Co. for weeks has been endeavoring to find the cause of recurring static reported on one of its party lines.

Today a diligent repairman uncovered the reason when he found a housewife who admitted she occasionally removes the receiver and uses it as a darning egg in mending hose.

Windsor Locks Girls in Luck

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Young ladies in the vicinity of Hartford, Ct., are scheduled to get a break from Uncle Sam, for the Army has ordered 2458 bachelor officers and enlisted men to its air base at Windsor Locks.

Assignment of the men was announced today by Rep. Smith (D.) of Connecticut, a member of the military committee, who said the War Department was picking bachelors because quarters were available at Windsor Locks only for single men.

The Army also informed Smith that 60 officers would be assigned to the eastern air command at Hartford.

TOKIO, May 22 (AP) — Flour was added today to the list of rationed articles in Japan, which include rice, charcoal, sugar, sake and beer. Under a new decree the flour allowance for a family of four during June will be one and one-quarter pounds.

Another Elinor First Lady's Oldest Friend

One of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's warmest friends for many years has been her Hyde Park neighbor, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., wife of the Secretary of the Treasury. Vesta Kelling tells of their association in this third article on the capital "petticoterie."

By VESTA KELLING

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP Special News Service) — Of women of the official family at the nation's capital, Elinor Morgenthau, wife of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., doubtless occupies the warmest place in Eleanor Roosevelt's heart.

The two friends have been a familiar sight to early-rising citizens, cantering along Washington's bridle paths together long before Civil Service workers have been disturbed by alarm clocks.

BOSSED RADIO PROGRAMS

Ever since they were both young women rearing families, Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Morgenthau have been neighbors in Dutchess County, New York, where the Morgenthaus have a farm 15 miles from Hyde Park.

Mrs. Morgenthau's role in the Morgenthau menage, friends say, approximates that of Mrs. Roosevelt's in the White House. Her husband listens to her opinions with real interest. This niece of New York's Governor Lehman always has been more than a social adjunct to her husband in his political life.

During the 1932 presidential campaign she arranged all the radio programs for Democratic women in the country, and, with $25,000 to spend managed to finish with a tidy surplus.

Vividly brunette and with snapping black eyes, Mrs. Morgenthau is known for her wit and humor.

In Washington she kids Washington.

As a young woman, Mrs. Morgenthau's interests were largely in the theater, producing children's plays at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York and organizing the Poughkeepsie Community Theater and Vassar Workshop.

Elinor Fatman was three years out of Vassar when she married young Morgenthau, son of a business man-philanthropist whom Woodrow Wilson made ambassador to Turkey.

NO ELECTRIC LIGHTS

As young married folk, the Morgenthaus lived on their Fishkill farms doing practical farming, without lights or modern conveniences, but have since acquired a spacious house, with a swimming pool, where Mrs. Roosevelt often is a guest.

The two women shop and go to the theater together in New York and Mrs. Morgenthau often accompanies her to meetings concerning the welfare of children and farmers.

Two Yale Men Break Even in Broncho Test

NEW HAVEN, May 21 (AP)—The brothers Aschmann, Yale students from Croton-on-Hudson, who want to be cowboys, broke even last night in their challenge to two bucking broncbos of a professional rodeo—one stuck and one didn't.

The two boys, sons of a New York city textile executive, said they sought to compete to get publicity for a local riding stable for which Frank, a freshman, works. They were permitted in the arena after signing a release of responsibility for broken bones.

They came off the broncbos unscathed, though Charles, a senior, said his trip was rather abrupt. Frank rode the length of the arena and halfway back, approximately 200 feet.

Admittedly they were nervous, especially because a crowd of fellow-students turned out to cheer.

"It was just bang-bang-bang," said Frank.

The professional riders, at first frankly dubious, later commented that the boys might make pretty good cowboys with practice.

18 Flee $50,000 Attleboro Fire

ATTLEBORO, May 22—A general alarm fire today threatened the center of the city, forced 18 persons to flee and badly damaged a three-story block containing stores, offices and apartments.

Fire Chief Fred A. Clark said the loss might reach $50,000.

The blaze raged out of control for an hour, endangering a nearby hotel and business blocks.

Patrolman Joseph Heagney made two trips into the smoke-filled building before he found John Hillery, one of the lodgers, and led him to safety.

Lineman's paradise?

A telephone pole nine hundred and sixty feet high . . . more than five times the height of Niagara! Doesn't seem reasonable, does it . . . especially when you think of the man with the spikes! But that's how high a pole would be if it carried the 4,242 wires now packed into a cable only 2⅝ inches thick!

Which means what?

Simply that telephone engineering has gone a long way since you last tangled a kite-tail in that maze overhead!

Today's telephone poles don't have to be abnormally high . . . nor do we need as many in proportion to traffic. . . . Nearly 97% of this company's wire mileage is now in cable, and nearly 61% of it in underground cable.

That is just a sample of many ways in which your telephone company has met changing conditions . . . given you better service despite a tremendously increased "load."

CRIES of the old ditty, "Mother, mother, I am sick, get the doctor, quick, quick, quick" . . . would present a problem to many a doting young Bay State mother this week, for most of the prominent medicos of Massachusetts are here in Boston attending the three-day convention of the Massachusetts Medical Society . . .

Most of the physicians have brought their wives along and a festive program of entertainment is keeping the ladies busy while their better halves attend scientific conferences and exhibitions . . .

First event on the ladies' program was a tea and musicale yesterday afternoon at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum . . . Tea was served in the colorful courtyard . . .

The ladies were welcomed by Mrs. William T. O'Halloran, general chairman of the entertainment committee, who wore a navy bolero dress with crisp white linen lapels, and a modish white straw hat . . .

Mrs. Theodore L. Badger, chairman of the tea committee, attended to her many duties, looking cool and attractive in apricot linen . . . Like the other members of her committee, Mrs. Badger was hatless and wore a single white carnation . . . Assisting her were Mrs. Charles W. McClure, who chose a blue crepe outfit; Mrs. John A. Reidy, Mrs. Chester Keifer, Mrs. Roger I. Lee, Mrs. Archie Abrams and Mrs. W. Warren Stearns . . .

Pink carnations were the badges of the pourers, who included Mrs. Augustus Thorndike, in a colorful print dress, Mrs. Reginald Fitz, whose costume combined pink and blue in an effective print, and Mrs. Reginald Smithwick, who looked very attractive in dark blue with accordion pleated white chiffon ruffles at the neck and cuffs . . .

Jeanne Bachrach Kimball of Dedham, who sang a program of old English ballads, was joined by Leo Litwin in presenting the musical program in the beautiful tapestry room . . . Mrs. Kimball chose a gown of gold and red which harmonized with the colors in the tapestries . . .

Among the many others enjoying the occasion were Mrs. Winthrop Weatherbee, Mrs. George V. Smith, Miss Mary L. Field, relaxing after a strenuous morning as registration chairman; Mrs. Edmund L. Butler, who is in charge of today's tour of the South Shore; Mrs. Robert M. Nye, who has planned an outing for golf enthusiasts among the visitors; Mrs. Thomas Lanman, Mrs. James Halsted and Mrs. George Sturgis, all wives of prominent local doctors . . .

Aviation Ball at Somerset

GOLD BRAID AND DRESS BLUES will provide a brilliant complement to lavish ball gowns worn by the ladies, at the gala Aviation Ball to be held at the Hotel Somerset tomorrow evening . . .

Local military and aviation dignitaries and a large committee of socialite aviation enthusiasts have been busy all week with arrangements for the ball which will provide a brilliant climax to Flying Cadet Week . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Chalifoux of Beverly are appropriately enough, members of the ball committee . . . Young Mr. Chalifoux, a recent bridegroom, has owned and operated his own aircraft for some years, and recently he purchased the Beverly airport to operate as a business . . . His bride is the former Evelyn Lilly, a lively and attractive member of the North Shore's younger set . . .

Also on the committee are Fran Chalifoux's brother-in-law and sister, the young Harry Drapers . . . Harry is also an aviation enthusiast and devotes much of his time to teaching at East Boston Airport . . .

MRS. HUGH BANCROFT, JR., of Cohasset, one of the enthusiastic young workers for Boston's first big aviation ball, to be held in the interests of national defense at the Hotel Somerset tomorrow evening. Mrs. Bancroft is the former Bettina Hall Gray of Brookline, a talented young socialite actress who has taken part in a number of summer plays at Cohasset.

All Services Represented

COMMITTEE MEMBERS also include such ardent flying fans as the Harris Fahnestocks, Jr., the junior Hugh Bancrofts, Jean Adams, who has an executive job at East Boston, Mr. and Mrs. W. Nelson Bump and Harrison Proctor, who flies everywhere in his own plane and owns a sumptuous yacht to boot . . .

Still others planning the ball are Col. and Mrs. Alexander R. Bolling, Lt. and Mrs. Benjamin Bowker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Choate, the Gardiner Fiskes, Mr. and Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner, Lt. and Mrs. Mark Hopkins, Loomis Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Prince, Maj. and Mrs. Arthur Richmond, Mrs. Crocker Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilder, Jr., and many more . . .

Providing the splendor of gold braid and dress uniforms will be officers of all branches of the service . . . among them Maj.-Gen. Henry H. Arnold, assistant chief of staff of the U. S. Army and chief of the Air Corps . . . Rear Admiral John H. Towers, Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff and Admiral William T. Tarrant . . .

Off a Society Editor's Cuff . . .

R. BENNET FORBES, who married the former Busty McKean of Beverly Farms, has purchased an old inn on the road to Gloucester, which he plans to operate during the summer, and turn into a residence for his wife and baby next winter . . . The rector of Christ Church, Cambridge, has a busy schedule for Saturday, June 28, with three big weddings, one right after the other, taking place in the historic old edifice that afternoon . . . Charlotte Murray and Mary Faxon are two of the trio of brides-to-be, who are getting together on planning the decorations, etc., which will be used for all three services.

A New Figure for Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

We once heard of a lady who had a million dollars and still couldn't have cream in her coffee. She had to count her calories just like the rest of us and dip them along with her coupons, if she expected to keep her figure.

Cream is one of the fats and fats are so high in calories that they are on the black list for anyone with the disinclination to gravitate into the unstylish stout class. In warm weather, with the menus running to sandwiches made with mayonnaise, salads mixed with French dressing, and tall, cool beverages, frozen desserts and berries all enriched with cream, it is a list that bears watching.

Suppose you take just a sandwich and salad for lunch. Plain, they are slimming fare, but not when 300 or so calories in dressing are added. Then, there are the nice cool beverages. The 18 per cent cream that goes into them counts only 30 calories per tablespoon, but who takes just one? Same with sugar. It isn't the first lump for 25 calories that counts, it's the second for 50.

For the moment, such iced drinks may cool you off. But it's only a fleeting illusion, for actually they are high in calories—high in fuel—and you either burn it in energy or wear it as a coat of fat.

Proof that you can get used to going without these delectable trimmings is furnished by the reducers who develop a preference for black coffee. They like the taste of the coffee. While you are about it, you might as well extend this rule of no cream or sugar to summer fruits and berries and surprise yourself with their natural flavor.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURS., MAY 22, 1941

LIKE Hitler's Naziism and Mussolini's Fascism, the Sales Tax refuses to hoist the white flag and accept defeat.

The Sales Tax bobs up at the most unexpected times, apparently in the hope that it may eventually catch the people off guard and fasten itself upon them.

This is especially true of the brand of Sales Tax which has haunted Massachusetts for the past decade.

Soon—any day now—in the guise of a misnamed Levy on Luxuries, it will make its newest and boldest bid for acceptance by the Legislature.

All it requires is the blessing of the Committee on Taxation.

At that go-ahead signal, Sales Tax advocates will spring into action, mouthing promises that have no more substance than a spider's web and displaying moth-eaten maps and charts which show almost everything, save the pertinent fact that the pending legislation is a deliberate blow at the small wage-earner.

Of course, a proper appreciation of the responsibilities entrusted to them and a conscientious regard for the people whom they have been elected to serve should cause members of the Committee on Taxation to consign the Sales Tax Bill to the Capitol incinerator.

But the people cannot be sure that all the members will be so democratically inclined.

A majority might favor the measure.

FOR THAT GOOD REASON it behooves the people and all members of the Legislature to study the Sales Tax Bill and see for themselves just what it proposes to do.

Two years ago the Sales Tax was defeated because, among other things, Senators and Representatives thought a two per cent levy on necessary commodities was too much.

Now the bill's backers are calling for a THREE per cent levy!

This is no more astounding than the articles which the measure lists as "luxuries."

For instance, a child who buys a ten-cent ice cream cone has to pay a tax.

So does the mother who feeds her children nourishing cocoa.

A bathtub is another "luxury" and the person who purchases one has to make his contribution to the State treasury.

If a family cannot afford gas or electricity and uses kerosene, that would be a taxable "luxury."

So would such important home items as rugs, carpets, wallpaper and curtains.

In short, the very things that are essential to a decent American standard of living would be taxed as luxuries.

EVERYBODY KNOWS that Federal expenses and taxes are rising as a result of the rearmament program and assistance given to Britain and other foreign countries.

Congress will probably extend the income tax to still lower brackets, so that the wage earner who has always been exempt will henceforth be required to make substantial payments to the United States Treasury.

For that reason, if for no other, the Sales Tax should be speedily rejected by Massachusetts legislators.

The stenographer who is giving a part of her $20 weekly salary to enable her country to resist aggression ought not be compelled to pay a higher price for everything she buys to eat, wear or use.

Neither should the thousands of young men who have left their jobs in business and industry and have gone into the Army for $21 a month.

Yet these are representative members of the group which the iniquitous Tax on Luxuries proposes to hit and to hit hard.

The real victim of a Sales Tax is the LITTLE MAN, and no amount of political "palaver" will ever alter that fact.

The little man is the one who can least afford to take the tax grabber along every time he leaves his home to go to the store or market.

He is the one who is compelled to buy LESS food and wear FEWER clothes.

He is the one who has to pay an extra 3 per cent on the medicine, nursing bottle and garments he purchases for his baby son, as well as another 3 per cent on the marker he places over his father's grave.

THANKSGIVING DAY is going to be moved back to the last Thursday in November in 1942.

Massachusetts, the State which gave this holiday to the nation, never accepted the change, so the President's decision will have no effect here. Elsewhere, however, it will be important.

Popular reluctance to abandon an institution which most people have cherished since childhood, augurs well for the retention of many other American habits and customs, including our Constitution and the guarantees of liberty and freedom it contains.

On The Side

-:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

Anger in its time and place
May assume a kind of grace,
It must have some reason in it,
And not last beyond a minute.
LAMB

ARISTOTLE, who seems to have had something worth while to say about nearly everything, observed: "Anybody can become angry—that is easy—but to be angry with the right person to the right degree and at the right time for the right purpose and in the right way—that is not within everybody's power — and is not easy." Every executive deserving the name or salary should know how to do what Aristotle mentions. How about your boss? Can he do it?

THE VALUE of a dog as a companion, said Emerson, is he offers "no reproach, no criticism." Guess Mr. Emerson never owned a spaniel. If I don't take my pup for a walk right on the dot of the time he usually has one he certainly reproaches and criticizes me plenty with looks, whines, barks and pawing. And is he reproachful when we go out and leave him behind? Why he is absolutely bitter.

CONFIDENTIAL: With stockings "guaranteed not to run" and lipstick "guaranteed not to smear" on the market, why is it so many women have runs in their stockings and so many men's faces are smeared with lipstick after receiving a kiss from their sweethearts or wives? . . . "You refer to Bob Ripley as a bachelor. Isn't he a divorce? Wasn't he married once?" says Pittsburger. Mr. Ripley was married to a Follies girl. He recently denied being a "confirmed" bachelor saying: "If I can find the right girl I will jump at the chance of being married, believe it, or not."

PASSING BY: Betty Blythe. Statuesque screen siren. Remember Betty in "The Queen of Sheba." Her real name is Elizabeth Slaughter . . . Johnny Longden. Jockey. When his riding days are over and the question arises "Little man, what now?" Johnny will not have to worry. He has saved his money and is said to be worth $250,000 . . . Helen Hayes. First Lady of the Theater. Helen started acting at age of three. Ever notice how many of the top-notchers of stage, screen and sport started in their particular activity early in childhood. Better study that female child of yours, ma'am. You may have another Helen Hayes there. And you, sir, keep your eye on that little son. Hand him a baseball and see how he grabs hold of it. He may be another Bob Feller.

WIVES: In Arabia now a man can have four wives at one time but no more. When an Arabian wants a divorce he calls the wife he wants to be rid of and says: "You are divorced," and that is all there is to it. Ibn Saud of Arabia has had 100 wives who have given him 100 sons. He keeps no record of the daughters. Right now Ibn has three wives. Imagine having 97 ex-wives. Still it might not be so bad. I know a fellow who has five ex-wives and is very friendly with all of them. Not only that, the five ex-wives are very friendly with each other.

ADDED DETAILS: "If a $5000 bill is genuine it has a portrait of President James Madison on it," says article on detecting counterfeit money. I'll remember that. So far I have never ever seen a $5000 bill. A $1000 bill is the highest I have seen and a $100 is highest I have owned . . . Our Campaign No. 2246D seems a flop. This was designed to persuade cinema and radio play heroines not to use the term "Darling" more than 50 times in one three-minute love scene. However, we will compromise on the number if they will not pronounce it "Dolling" and not breathe quite so heavily when pronouncing it.

THE FIRST LADY OF THE THEATER
Helen Hayes, Brilliant Dramatic Actress

VILLAIN: What the screen needs is more villains, male and female. Right now there isn't an actor or actress in the films you can love to hate. The radio has several good villains. I heard a good, old-fashioned vamp on the air today. An honest-to-goodness twister of strong men around her little finger. A real "Kiss Me, My Fool!" type. She was in something called "We Are Always Young." Her name wasn't given. That disappointed me because I wanted to call her up and "hiss" her.

BRIEFLY: Now ice cream is being sold by slot machine. Quite a business that slot machine industry. I wonder how much they lose annually because of slugs . . . When referring to Japan's attack on China, the Chinese say: "A rat which gnaws at a tiger's tail invites destruction" . . . Today a fellow persuaded me to try as a drink a whipped egg in a glass of orange juice. It was all right. Ever try it?

FRIENDS: Col. "Wild Bill" Donovan. Once of New York's "Fighting Sixty-Ninth." Read that Col. Donovan received the nickname "Wild Bill" because he was so recklessly wild in action in France. No doubt the colonel was wild in action, but his nickname was inspired by fact there was at the time he got it a great American League baseball pitcher named "Wild Bill" Donovan. "Wild Bill," the pitcher, died in a railroad wreck some years ago.

PLEASE NOTE: "In God We Trust" motto on United States coinage is short for "It is better to put trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man," Psalms 118:8. As this would not fit on the coinage, Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase shortened it to motto now used. So states a Chicagoan . . . Today not a single Negro jockey rides on America's major tracks. Yet the Kentucky Derby, America's greatest horse race, has 15 times been won by horses ridden by Negro jockeys. Isaac Murphy, brilliant Negro rider, won the Kentucky Derby three times.

Boris Karloff

Broadway Medley

KARLOFF MAKES WISE INVESTMENT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 22—Boris Karloff will net more than $50,000 profit—in addition to his salary—out of his $6000 investment in the production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." Before the rehearsals began, Producers Lindsay and Crouse were offered over $100,000 by friends who wanted to invest. They decided, however, to permit members of the cast to buy an interest in the production. Allyn Joslyn, who won such favorable reviews for his performance, made his decision too late . . . Karloff invested when Russell Crouse told him: "We'll hold a share open for you until the day after the show opens on Broadway. After you read the drama reviews and you feel that you'd like a share, we'll let you buy." Karloff invested immediately.

ENTERPRISE: Henry Gerstley, the new head of the Philadelphia Orchestra, tells of an American who visited a card-printing plant in Moscow. The Soviet guide showed the visitor through the plant, and then proudly informed: "In the days of the Czar, we had only two presses here, eight employes, and the production was only 50 cards a week . . . At the beginning of the Second Five-Year-Plan, we had 100 presses here, 400 employes, and produced 3000 cards a week. And now," concluded the Soviet guide, we have 300 presses, 1200 employes, and we produce 12,000 cards a week" . . . "Tell me," asked the American visitor, "what do you print on those cards?" . . . The guide picked up a handful, displayed the neat lettering, and answered: "They read: 'Elevator Not Running.'"

SIZE: A union official representing the ILGWU, and who is four feet, eleven in height, waited in the City Hall foyer for an appointment with Mayor LaGuardia. In due time the mayor arrived and began walking towards his office . . . All the policemen and officials in the foyer stood at attention, while Fiorello strode by. The tiny union official also stood up. LaGuardia walked hurriedly, then hesitated for a moment beside the under-five-foot labor representative. Fiorello took one step to his side, moved his hand from the top of his own head to the top of the other's, snapped: "I'm taller than you are"—and continued on.

CHANGE: Aline MacMahon, the screen star, went to a beautician in Hollywood to have her hair done. The new attendant there completed the hair-dressing job and then suggested: "Oh, miss—why not try our new process of plucking the eyebrows? It would change the expression on your face completely" . . . "Really?" replied Miss MacMahon. "You'd be surprised at how much that expression buys now."

FATE: When Mrs. Wendell Willkie was in Washington last, Mrs. J. Ham Lewis insisted upon reading her palm . . . After a studied conversation of the lines in Mrs. Willkie's hands, the wife of the former Presidential candidate asked: "I'd like to know one thing. How soon will we be able to go back to the peace and quiet of private life?" . . . "Oh, no—that won't happen," said Mrs. Lewis. "From now on you'll have more excitement and still more excitement—the rest of your long life."

CHATTER: Paul Robeson will revive "Emperor Jones," for Richard Aldrich, at the Dennis Playhouse . . . Victor Moore of "Louisiana Purchase," and Betty Hutton, of "Panama Hattie" are the town's newest victims of measles . . . The Ranee of Sarawak went to Washington last week-end, visited Lord Halifax, and was able to obtain a priority on passage to London. She'll leave in a few days . . . Harry Richman's newest venture will be a roller-skating rink on the East Side . . . Americans who returned from Paris report that when Goering made his first purchases there, he paid in marks which were still wet from the presses. He then began paying in American dollars.

EXCHANGE: Alexander Ince tells of two madmen, one of whom owned a dog which the other wished to purchase. "I want $100,000 for the dog," was the price set—and so the deal was called off . . . The next day the dog owner was observed walking alone, without his pet. "I sold the dog," he explained . . . "For how much?" his friend asked . . . $100,000," he stated . . . "In cash?" he was asked . . . "Well, not exactly," was the answer. "In return I accepted two $50,000 cats."

LISTEN, WORLD!

by

ELSIE ROBINSON

MIGHTY healthy sign, the way our sense of values is changing. Private problems that seemed so vitally important a few months ago are beginning to take second place. We're growing up fast, we Americans—and I've a hunch we needed it!

There's Jim, who hasn't missed the opening day of a trout season for 30 years. Talked about it, planned for weeks in advance. This year he passed it up without a blink.

"Got too many other things to think about," said he, obeying a rush defense order.

There's Helen, who used to spend hours primping for bridge, cocktail hours, night spots. Now she's sorting Bundles for Buddies in camps and doesn't give a hoot whether the wave's in her hair or not.

It's hitting other things in our lives, also, this new consciousness of a larger, more pressing world.

SOMEHOW when you think of the Greeks, or the Finns, or Dunkirk, you wonder why on earth you've been mad at Milly Jones all these years just because she once said Junior was a hellion.

Even the griefs and humiliations, we can't hug those as we used to do. The loneliness that has gnawed like a cancer for years. The grave that swallowed all you knew of hope and laughter. That old betrayal that has festered so long in your blood. Once these took precedence over all other interests. Now they're being blotted out by swift, enormous Change.

And one remembers that other tragic blotting out which marked the trail of the pioneers. The hasty camp by night . . . the sudden death . . . a tiny grave that must not be a marker for the Indian or the wolf. And so the rolling wheels went over, one by one, wiping out the little mound . . . the wheels that must go on no matter what happened.

PITIFUL? Yes. But merciful, too. Better, infinitely, that the little grave should be left behind than that a mother should spend her life weeping above it. Dear as love was, there were greater responsibilities to face . . . home to make . . . other babes to cherish . . . a wilderness to conquer. Beside these tremendous challenges one could not nurse a single, broken heart.

Rolling Wheels—all progress has been built by them. Always before we can go on to a wider life we must leave something behind . . . something that belonged to a smaller, personal joy. And always the going on hurts—as all growth hurts. But it's better to be hurt than to stay in our little rut forever, never guessing what adventures lie ahead for those who are strong enough to grasp them.

Rolling Wheels, thank God for them! Thank God for the stern and overwhelming pressure that wipes out the narrow boundaries of our lives and gives us a wider perspective, even though we glimpse it through tears.

MY DAY

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Wednesday—It was beautiful driving through the Maine countryside yesterday.

Everyone was most kind. Mrs. Charles Donohue, the former Democratic national committeewoman, met me at the hotel in Portland in the early morning, and it was very pleasant to be greeted so warmly. Later, in Bangor, I met the new Democratic national committeewoman, Mrs. Hickson. The arrangements there seemed a little formal at first, but as they proceeded I had the feeling of real welcome and close contact with the citizens of Bangor.

We stopped for a few minutes before the statue of Hannibal Hamlin, who was Vice-President in President Lincoln's first administration. President Theodore Roosevelt's visit to Bangor was recalled. As a matter of fact, I have a distinct recollection of Uncle Ted going to Maine many times on fishing and hunting expeditions, and I am sure it is the country that appealed to him.

My husband knows every inch of the coast and I think there are few parts of Maine that I have not at least driven through at one time or another. The Roosevelt family seems to have some real ties in this border state.

AT LUNCHEON with Governor and Mrs. Sewall, I met one or two Washington acquaintances and Mrs. Franklin Johnson, wife of the president of Colby College in Waterville, Maine, where we visited last fall.

On the way to Bangor we were able to drive through and see some of the buildings at the Central Airport, which the Army is preparing. The buildings are all up, but it looks to me as though it would take quite a little grading around them before the grass grows and makes them look less bare.

We took the night train back to Boston, had our breakfast at the Statler Hotel, and I went to see Franklin, Jr., at the hospital. He is not a very pretty sight after his automobile accident, but the young heal quickly and I am sure he will be himself in a few days.

We caught the plane for Washington.

BEVY OF BEAUTIES IN SHERIDAN FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

Ann Sheridan

HOLLYWOOD, May 22—I won't attempt to pronounce the name of Voldemar Vetlugini. It's too much of a tongue twister. But the spelling is correct—I hope. At any rate Vetlugini is a writer with an eye to beauty. He has selected the prettiest girls in America for models and magazine covers among them Kay Aldridge, Jinx Falkenberg, Peggy Diggins, Georgia Carroll, Margaret Chapman, Loraine Geltman. Now he has written a story, "The Power Model," which, with Everett Freeman, he is readying for Warner production.

Some of these beauties will be in "The Power Model," the tentative title and can't you see that all roads will lead to Warners studio? Ann Sheridan will have the lead and Ann is not so hard on the eyes, either.

LAIRD CREGAR is such a good actor that he doesn't have to care whether Jack Oakie calls him "Lard" Cregar or not. Laird, himself, says he's now down from three tons to two tons. Be that as it may, he's so subtle in "Blood and Sand" I'm not surprised that Bill Perlberg has just handed him one of the best roles in 20th Century-Fox's whooper-dooper, "Coney Island." Although Coney Island has figured in many movies, this is the first film to show its development from 1897, when it was started by the Tilyou family the famous amusement tycoons. Three of them are still living and operating our most famous amusement resort.

THE DETERMINATION of Olivia DeHavilland to leave Hollywood without a word to anyone but Hal Wallis at Warners, was not because of any torch she is carrying for Jimmie Stewart. Olivia really went to work too soon after her operation and she decided to get far away from all her well meaning friends. So she will spend a month at Cape Cod and Westchester, returning here in time to play the femme lead in "One Foot in Heaven" opposite Freddie March. Neither Olivia nor her sister, Joan Fontaine, are very robust and Olivia's nerves were really in a bad condition after she finished at Paramount in "Hold Back the Dawn," simply because she isn't well.

THE NEWLYWEDS, lovely Ilona Massey and good looking Alan Curtis are guests of honor on my radio program Friday night over CBS. For the exact time consult your newspaper. They will appear in "New Wine," produced by Dr. William Sekely, and Ilona's glorious voice will be heard in Schubert's "Ave Maria" and other Schubert songs. Ilona, by the way, is playing her first straight non-singing role in "International Lady" for Edward Small and she is really a glamorous girl and photographs like a million dollars. She is one of the most beautiful women on the screen and with that glorious voice of hers there is no limit to what she can do. "New Wine" is Alan's first romantic lead and he makes a very intriguing Franz Schubert.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Garson Kanin talked $700 worth to Katie Hepburn this past week; a bomb nearly tore apart the house where Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier are living in London; Director Jack Hively and Dorothy Lovett will be married before he goes into the Army July 1; speaking of the Army, Johnny Downs says he hasn't been called. He is the sole support of his invalid mother; Jimmy Walker plans to bring his children back here for a visit to Hollywood; Harriet Parsons' showing of her eight "Meet the Stars" shorts went over in great style. The Hollywood reporter says "the reels contain excellent material for the entire industry without sacrificing entertainment value. All eight are excellently presented. Robert Tobey's photography of the candid variety is very good." The theater was packed and many stars were there. Tallulah Bankhead threw her arms around her about-to-be-divorced husband, John Emery, and gave him a great reception when they met a few days ago. Deanna Durbin checked in at Universal studios today for recordings; the Gary Coopers are giving a party at March Field tonight for some of the fliers; Gene Markey is home suffering with a bad cold.

LOUELLA PARSONS, famed internationally circulated Hearst motion picture columnist, will be heard locally over station WEEI every Friday between 10 and 10:30 p. m.

CONSTANCE MOORE, one of the stars of the excellent air picture, "I Wanted Wings," which opened today on the Met's screen.

Dempsey-Willard Fight Scenes in Keith's Film

On a hot July 4 afternoon back in 1919 a lean, beetle-browed, 24-year-old boxer hailing from Manassa, Col., coolly proceeded to cut to pieces the then heavyweight champion of the world, the giant Jess Willard.

As the "Manassa Mauler," as Jack Dempsey was called, battered the champion with dynamite-laden lefts and rights, leaving him so helpless that he was unable to answer the bell for the fourth round, a movie camera clicked at the ringside, the "Battle of the Century" for posterity.

The highlights of this championship bout at Toledo, O., are included in "The Great American Broadcast," the 20th Century-Fox film starring Alice Faye, John Payne, Jack Oakie and Cesar Romero, and now on Keith Memorial screen.

Original clips from the memorable movie which brings to life the almost legendary fistic prowess of Jack Dempsey, provide the realistic background for a fictional but accurately depicted first broadcast of a prize fight.

John Payne portrays the role of the announcer for this exciting scene. He enacts the now familiar blow by blow description as the actual fight films are shown.

Gala Revue Ends Globe's Season

The Globe winds up its burlesque season this week-end with a hang-up two-day burlesque revue headed by peppy Stella Mills, known throughout the burlesque circuit as "The Dixie Girl," starting tomorrow.

This lavish, brief engagement is by way of being a precedent breaker in burlesque circles and will make way on Monday for the summer policy of film attractions.

The mercurial Mills is to be assisted in the beauty department by Dolores Dawn, Mimi Reed, Margie Roye and the 30 Dancing Bernardolis. For laughs there will be the indispensable Mandy Kay, Harry "Shuffles" Le Van, Harry Ryan and Irving Benson.

Extols Nation's Little Fellows

Frank Capra's eloquent "Meet John Doe," story of the little fellows who are the backbone of this country, moves from the Met to the Paramount and Fenway screens today.

This Gary Cooper-Barbara Stanwyck starrer, scripted by Robert Riskin, is in the opinion of columnist Walter Winchell "another feather in his Capra" and by far the hardest-hitting picture on the theme of democracy yet unleashed by the celebrated producer-director of such excellent films as "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Gary Cooper's John Doe, a mild, unassertive, rather shy fellow, proves to be a hellzapoppin' terror when aroused, to prove Capra's and Riskin's point that this country might well fall into the hands of a ruthless tyrant if it were not for its John Does.

The script is excellently written, the acting is uniformly excellent, the direction expert and, altogether you'll find John Doe stimulating and charming company.

On the same bill the twin screens are showing "Strange Alibi," also a Warner Brothers production.

TALENTED team is Barbara Stanwyck and Gary Cooper in "Meet John Doe," which moves today from the Met to the Paramount, Fenway.

Carmen Miranda Hit for Uptown

Uptown's new screen bill, starting tomorrow, offers that Brazilian bombshell, Carmen Miranda, in "That Night in Rio," technicolor picture showing her at her vivid best. Co-starred with her are Don Ameche and Alice Faye, who have never been better. On the same program will be "The Man Who Lost Himself," with Brian Aherne and Kay Francis.

'Pot O' Gold' Comes To Scollay, Modern

"Pot O' Gold," the James Roosevelt production starring James Stewart, Paulette Goddard, Charles Winninger, Horace Heidt and his Musical Knights, comes to the Scollay and Modern screens tomorrow for a week's run. On the same bill you'll be seeing Judy Canova in "Sis Hopkins," the story of a hillbilly girl who served Mabel Normand in her hey-day.

Edwards Battery To See Met Film

With New England Flying Cadet Week being observed currently, today's opening of the Met screen of "I Wanted Wings," is perfectly timed. After tonight's demonstration of an actual anti-aircraft problem on Boston Common by Battery A of the 198th Coast Artillery, the Camp Edwards men participating will see the Met film.

BOSTON After DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

A REVERSE SWITCH on the "home town girl makes good" angle, is the case of talented Collette Lyons, of Dorchester and Quincy . . . Collette is a local girl who can't get a chance to prove whether she would "make good" or whether she wouldn't, in this, her home town.

COLLETTE IS YOUNG, blonde and pretty . . . Nevertheless, she rates on Broadway as a veteran entertainer . . . More than one producer has been tempted to give Miss Lyons the principal comedienne's role since George White cast her for that assignment in his last "Scandals" . . . But Collette doesn't have to wait for a Broadway show . . . She is booked continuously—but not in Boston.

MISS LYONS CURRENTLY is playing at the Crystal Terrace of the Park Plaza Hotel, St. Louis . . . Signed for a two-week engagement, Collette is now in her fifth week, and the spot is the leading nightclub of the Missouri metropolis . . . But she does want to play Boston, and has been quite frank about it. (Which probably is bad strategy.)

THE BOSTON JOURNALS have been consistently sympathetic to the efforts of local talent in the various nightclubs . . . Witness: Bernice Parks at the Ritz Roof . . . Bernice has grabbed so much space, mostly because of her birthplace — Broo line — that audiences have been impressed before the young singer has warbled a note . . . Something similar would happen probably if Miss Lyons won a booking hereabouts.

BUT COLLETTE — ENJOYING mixed emotions of pique and amusement—has decided to take the matter in her own hands . . . She'll play her home town on a proposition of "double or nothing" . . . Either she works a first week free—at the Ritz, Mayfair, Cocoanut Grove or Latin Quarter—or the management pays her double . . . If the Quincy girl doesn't get five legitimate encores at every show, her services accrue to the management gratis, or "for free," as the boys used to call it.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The state veterinarian, the management of Suffolk Downs and the state racing commission would all seem to be in line for congratulations in the sorry instance at hand of the doping of at least two horses . . . It is easier to put the hush on scandals of this sort than to expose them . . . The show-up might quiet some of the talk heard every season of certain cliques being able to get away with the stimulation of thoroughbreds . . . Technically, this goes by the phrase of "having an edge with the spit box."

RASCALLY HORSEMEN generally steer miles away from tampering with horses unless the risk of their livelihood is no worse than an odds-on wager . . . It would appear in the Suffolk Downs situation that someone overmatched himself in relying on either his wits or influence to get away with a flagrant violation of the racing code . . . Two violations, in fact.

A "SPY ROUNDUP" goes on constantly in the Canal Zone . . . The last two saboteurs nabbed by the intelligence men were adulterating the cement of the new locks with saltpeter . . . Two former Massachusetts band-leaders, incidentally, are based in Panama . . . Perley Stevens is on the scene, awaiting a job in a Panama City nightclub . . . And Cliff Evans of Lawrence, who used to lead the Jersey Jic Jac orchestra, is engineer of a suction dredge at Gamboa.

IF WE GET A CHANCE to talk with Alexander Woollcott at Mickey Alpert's "100th Guest Night" at the Cocoanut Grove tonight, we are going to ask "The Man Who Came to Dinner" for his sentiments on the recent New York state legislation which makes it a crime to bar newspaper critics from legitimate theaters because of adverse critiques on a show . . . It was Alex who really started all the shooting . . . When he was critic for The Times, he and his paper carried a protest over his barring by the Shuberts to the Supreme Court.

WEATHER

Official U. S. Weather Bureau Forecast

LOCAL: Partly cloudy, occasional showers or thunderstorms tonight and Friday; continued warm; light to gentle variable winds tonight; gentle to moderate southwesterly Friday; lowest temperature tonight 65.

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE AND VERMONT — Partly cloudy, scattered showers and thunderstorms and slightly cooler in north portion tonight and Friday.

CONNECTICUT AND RHODE ISLAND Partly cloudy with scattered showers and thunderstorms tonight and Friday; no important temperature changes.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

The continued flow of warm, moist air from the southwest will result in the temperature rising into the 90's over much of New England today. Cooler air associated with a low pressure trough moving slowly southeastward across northeastern New York will produce scattered showers and thunderstorms in the northern sections of New England and in the Berkshires this afternoon, and in the remainder of southern New England tonight. The slow moving low pressure trough will maintain shower activity over New England through Friday.

Horseshoe Salad Dainty

By MARTHA LEE

There was a time when a salad was popular with comparatively few. Today the members of our family and our guests as well expect a salad. It appears daily at thousands of tables. In fact it may fit into almost any part of a meal—as the appetizer, the main dish, or the dessert course.

Salads adapt themselves particularly well to spring luncheons. We have one in mind that is served in a calavo half-shell. The seed cup is filled with combinations of egg salad, chicken salad, or mixture of fruit or vegetables.

Another salad that is quite decorative but is surprisingly easy to prepare is a calavo horseshoe salad, pictured on this page. One good-sized calavo will form four "horseshoes." Stud with dark-headed nails formed from small wedges of ripe olives and garnish with vegetables of contrasting colors. Accompany with a wedge of lemon and French dressing served separately. It's a tricky looking salad appropriate to many gala occasions.

THE "CALAVO HORSESHOE SALAD," symbol of good luck, is a "single-jewel in a jewel case" type of salad, but one which you can prepare as effectively as any chef.

HORSESHOE SALAD

2 calavo pears
Lemon juice
Salt
Ripe olives
Salad greens for garnish
2 cups seasoned cottage cheese
8 cooked, seasoned cauliflower flowerettes
16 paper-thin slices uncooked carrot
16 red radishes
Lemon wedges
French dressing

Cut each calavo into halves lengthwise and remove seed. Cut each half into 2 lengthwise slices; pull off skin (cut a thin slice from rounded sides to give a flat surface; cut this portion into small pieces and blend with cheese). Cut a small wedge from small end of slices to form "horseshoes." Place "shoes" on garnished salad plates. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Form horseshoe "nails" from bits of olive. Fill centers of "shoes" with cottage cheese. Garnish each plate with a cauliflower flowerette, 2 carrot slices, 2 radishes, an olive and a lemon wedge. Serve French dressing separately. Makes 8 servings.

Then there's a garden salad that becomes popular about this time of year. Rosey-cheeked tomatoes, yellow-topped celery, bright green cucumbers and other colorful vegetables, fresh from the garden patch, all tossed together lightly with French dressing or mayonnaise to brighten the flavors of every bite.

TOSSED GARDEN SALAD

Wash and drain dry your favorite salad greens—such as lettuce, romaine, watercress or endive; a combination of two or more may be used. Cut or break into pieces and combine with portions of diced celery, cucumber, green pepper, radishes and minced onion. Chill thoroughly. Then place in a salad bowl; add French dressing and bits of tomato. Toss lightly until well blended. This type of salad may also be served with just an oil and vinegar combination as a dressing, with a choice of other condiments served at the table.

A refreshing fruit salad often takes the place of dessert while it furnishes the salad course of a meal—or it may even be the main dish of a warm weather luncheon. And fruit salads are legion! They are made with all fresh fruits, or fresh fruits combined with canned ones—some of them molded in gelatin of gorgeous color.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

1 pkg. cream cheese
2 tbsp. cream
1-3 cup mayonnaise
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup diced canned pineapple
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
½ cup orange sections
¼ cup nut meats

Put cream cheese into mixing bowl, blend first amount of cream into it, working it in with a spoon or fork. Add mayonnaise and lemon juice, mixing them also into the cheese until mixture is perfectly smooth. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Prepare fruit. Drain slices of pineapple from juice, cut in wedge-shaped pieces. Wash, drain and slice fresh strawberries. Chop nut meats coarsely. Mix fruits and nut meats, fold into dressing. Turn into ice drawers of refrigerator.

You Can Be Beautiful

'Fingertip Masque' Proves Unusual Reconditioner

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU'VE HEARD of those fabulous wax baths which are given only in the gaudier salons of beauty . . . but you may not have heard that through these it was discovered what wonderful skin-reconditioning things can be done with the combination of such "inclosed" heat and penetrative oils.

Our impression is that a marvelous new "fingertip masque" that coats your fingers with oils which are sealed in a waxy substance . . . and then helped in their penetration by a small amount of heat . . . was inspired by nothing less than these beautifying baths! It's for nails which are brittle or pulpy, which crack and peel.

You may be very grand about it, if you wish . . . and visit a salon where you'll be given the "fingertip masque" for reconditioning nails and cuticle, in a hushed atmosphere of luxury . . . each finger treated like a jewel. Or you may buy the whole outfit required for the treatment and have innumerable home-grown reconditioning sprees.

The green, waxy substance which is crammed with herbal and balsam oils of the kind your cuticle and nail matrix crave . . . because it makes nails grow long and strong, pliant and with a natural sheen of their own. And it comes in a cute little double boiler, which you actually fill with hot water, and then heat up the masque until it's as hot as your fingertips can stand. From there on it's a process of dipping, as though you were making candles . . . and 15 minutes of "cooling off" for the masque. You may have the treatment as often as you wish . . . it's wonderful for your nails. And have it over a brand new manicure without worrying about it . . . it's good for the nail-do, too!

To learn about this unusual reconditioning "fingertip masque," phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

KATIE PLAYS CUPID

by Hollis Starnes

"SO NOW the war's on in Europe, and American girls can't go over there buyin' up titles, the fad's South Americans!" Katie Kilfeather's tone was deeply sarcastic, but Christine Potter, the dashing post-deb, only giggled.

"You've got an idea there, Kate! Maybe if I marry Carlos, I'll be starting a trend!"

The glamorous blonde socialite sat demurely on a stool in the linen room of the San Pedro hotel, where Katie was chambermaid. Long ago when Chris was a tow-headed tike, Katie had been her nurse. They had never lost touch with each other, and in recent years the girl came to the buxom and devoted maid with her love problems.

"Heaven forgive you," said Katie now, "makin' jokes about the holy state of matrimony!"

"It's no joke, Kilfeather! Haven't I spent the whole season trying to put Carlos Moreno out of my head? But what can you do about love?"

Katie Kilfeather wished people would stop asking her that. She was having her own troubles with the tender passion—wasn't Big Bart O'Toole proposing to her daily? She didn't know what to do about him, any more than what to tell Christine.

The Cast of Characters in "Katie Plays Cupid"

CHRISTINE POTTER, socialite, who is worried how her family will accept

CARLOS, her fiance, who is also a waiter.

KATIE KILFEATHER, the chambermaid who lends a helping hand.

"It's a caution," she sighed, "me a single woman in my middle years, bein' drafted as first aid to Cupid! Why don't you ask your mother, Chris?"

"Mother wouldn't approve of Carlos at all," said the girl flatly.

"Aha!" said Katie. "Then what does a girl like yourself want of this Brazil nut?"

RICH AND WILD

"He's not Brazilian, he's from Bolivia," said the girl seriously.

"What's the difference? All South Americans are alike, I've seen dozens around the hotel. They were all rich and wild, and after some actress."

"Well, this one's poor and steady, and he's after Little Me!" Chris retorted.

Her former nurse shook her head. "When you were a wee mite in your pram, and I'd be wheelin' you around Central Park, I used to dream of the day when you'd grow up and be a bride. The groom in my dreams was always——"

"Tall, dark and handsome—like Carlos!"

"It was no Brazil nut I pictured," said Katie, "but a fine, upstandin' lad with a twinkle in the eye, and plenty of cash."

"Carlos is your dream come true," the girl said, "on every count but the cash. With the world as it is now, does that matter?"

"With the world as it is now," said Katie doggedly, "it matters a lot."

"Shame on you, Kilfeather, with such mercenary talk, and standing in the way of our Good Neighbor policy!"

"It's one thing to be good neighbors," said Katie primly, "but I'm all against these mixed marriages."

"Well, you'd think he was a Heathen Chinee!" The girl laughed lightly, but her eyes were troubled. "I'm in love with the man, though he hasn't a cent but what he earns—the hard way."

"What do you mean?" asked Katie. "What does he do?"

The girl met her eyes. "He's a waiter," she said, and before Katie could speak she rushed on: "He's also a gentleman, much more so than most boys I know. He has fine ideals about love and home. He doesn't drink, and he's not dizzy—I'd marry him tomorrow except for the family howl!"

"Glory!" gasped Katie as she thought of the Potter clan's reaction to all this. "How did you meet the man?"

LIKE A GENERAL

"At a party," the girl said. "It was one of those farewells for some boys who were leaving for camp. A few of the crowd got noisy in the last night club we hit. Suddenly Carlos got in the melee. I hadn't noticed him before, he was just a waiter. In the roughhouse he came through like a General, He calmed them all down and made peace without bloodhed. I thought, 'That's what the world needs now, firm, quiet men like that—'"

"You've got something there," Katie admitted. "What happened next?"

"He put me in a taxi," said Chris. "You see, the brawl started over on elopement idea. Don Placer wanted me to skip to Armonk with him before his train left for camp. He was——"

"I can imagine," said Katie. "My sister Mary used to work for his mother. Well, the Army will sober up young Don!"

"It was all pretty messy," said the girl. "But Carlos was superb, the way he got me out. I asked him him to call the next day. I intended to—offer him something for his trouble. When he came, not in his waiter's uniform, and I got to talk to him, I realized he was somehow above us all, really. Then I fell in love with him."

In the roughhouse he came through like a general

"Poor Chris!" Katie murmured. "Your hero's some night club waiter instead of a Royal Prince!"

"As a matter of fact," he comes of a fine Bolivian family," said the girl. "He came up here like any other boy seeking new worlds to conquer. When he found the going tough, he took the first job he could get. What's the difference, Katie? One of my best friends sings in that club. Carlos waits there. They both earn an honest living."

Katie sat in her little rocking chair facing the girl. "What do you want me to say, Chris? From what you tell me, this lad's got stuff in him. But are you sure you're not just infatuated because he's something different? Couldn't you find yourself some other South American with a better job?"

Chris jumped down from the stool. "I'm not good neighbor enough for that!" she cried.

"Does the lad feel the same about you?"

The debutante nodded proudly. "He'd marry me tomorrow if he had another job!"

"Has your mother seen him at all?"

"He called one afternoon, and she thought he was charming—but she doesn't know, of course, what he does."

"If Carlos is all you say he is," said Katie, "all he needs is another job. Something your family would consider—suitable. Don't forget, Chris, it takes the older generation a while to break down old boundary lines. You young folks don't seem to care—you look at the man or girl, not what they do in the world—but the old folks are still lookin' the other way 'round."

A JOB FOR CARLOS

"That's why they've made such a mess of things!" cried the girl. "What else can the lad do?" asked Katie matter-of-factly. "Would he know anything about the contracting business?"

"His English isn't so hot. What do they contract?"

"Big piles of sand and mortar," said Katie. "It's Big Bart I mean, him that's after me to take him—at my age. He's got his name on a couple of trucks, and five men workin' for him. Maybe I could get him to size up Carlos—he sounds husky. The work's hard but the pay is steady——"

The debutante clapped her hands. "The family can't kick on that," she declared. "A contractor!"

"Then I'll talk to Big Bart tonight, but I'll not be roped into takin' himself in the bargain!"

"Don't you love the man?"

Katie shrugged. "I'm not so sure as yourself," she said coyly, "though Bart's got his points. How would this sound in the paper—Carlos whatever his name is, the big South American contractor?"

It sounded very well, Katie decided some months later when she read in the society columns the formal announcement of Christine Potter's engagement to Carlos don Fernandez de Belmonte Moreno—"the prominent young South American contractor."

"Jeepers," giggled Chris, "if they could just see him in his work clothes! I tell you, Katie, we're starting a trend!"

THE END.

MEXICO TELLS PUPILS CAUSE OF U. S. PACT

MEXICO CITY, May 22 (AP)—The Ministry of Public Education has ordered special instructions given Mexico's 2,000,000 school children on President Avila Camacho's reasons for aligning the nation with the United States and the other Americans in defense of democracy.

An elaborate pamphlet containing material for such instruction was distributed yesterday to directors of the nation's 25,000 schools.

Education Minister Luis Sanchez Ponton wrote in an introduction:

"The ministry of public education requests its collaborators to second with faith and enthusiasm the government which has taken the only attitude comparable with our historic antecedents and with our loyalty democratic principles.

"Mexico has done no more than add itself to the other republics of the American continent in whom breathe the same love of liberty, of justice and of respect for the independence and sovereignty of the nations which form the Western Hemisphere.

MUST ORIENT ITSELF

"If the interests of Mexico are tightly bound, then, to these other American republics, it is natural to suppose that the policy of the Mexican government has to orient itself, of necessity to the reality of signing pacts or treaties of mutual aid which might place us in the position of fighting for the conservation for peace as well as co-operation in whatever task the defense of the democratic regime in the American continent will require."

The government has already announced that mutual defense negotiations are progressing now in Washington.

SERIES OF ARTICLES

The series of articles comprising the pamphlet discuss these subjects, which Sanchez Ponton suggested be used for lectures, classroom exercises, etc.:

1—Mexico and the international situation, explaining why Mexico's future depends on the triumph of democracy in the world crisis.

DESTROYED PEACE

2—Why Mexico defends democracy, explaining the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis has destroyed international peace and unleashed brute force in the world.

3—An analysis and refutation of the Nazi-Fascist theory of racial superiority.

4—A review of the development of Pan-American principles.

5—Selections from speeches by Vice-President Wallace, United States Ambassador Daniels and President Avila Camacho on Pan-American Day last month.

CCC Opens Ranks To 40,000 Juniors

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—James J. McEntee, director of civilian conservation, announced today the CCC had begun enrollment of 40,000 juniors to fill vacancies caused by discharge of men taking private jobs and joining the armed forces.

Eligible for enrollment are youths 17 to 23 who are citizens of the United States, unmarried, of good character and "able and willing" to work.

CIVIC MONUMENT OR SOULLESS CORPORATION?

THIS WILL BE A SOUL-QUAKING shock to Boston ball fans, who have come to regard the Red Sox and Braves as civic monuments dedicated to the happy hollers of the people. The illusion that major league baseball is a community possession, possessed by the citizens, has grown for 50 years.

AUSTEN LAKE

Now it seems that the Red Sox and Braves are soulless corporations, conspiring to stifle free competition. Local 30 of the Building Service Workers' Union says so! They have been picketing the joints with sandwich banners. And why? They wish to unionize the ground workers, the hose squirters, dirt rakers, grass cutters and tarpaulin spreaders. The Labor Relations Board says, as bona fide employes of private enterprise, the ground crew has a right to organize, and has instructed the Red Sox to post notices to that effect around the premises. The Sox say it is O. K. by them.

This rouses an old and delicate question!

For the Red Sox and Braves' ball players are also bona fide employes and, as such, have equal rights to unionize with any other salaried worker. According to the strict tenets of the N. L. R. B., the company managements should long ago have invited them to choose a preferred bargaining agency with due recourse to strikes, minimum wage scales, complaint committees control of working conditions.

Well, it's a Federal statute isn't it?

They've Tried It Before

BUT THE BALL players won't unionize, now or ever! And I will tell you why! There are at least three case histories where they tried it before and flopped—that time in 1912 when the Detroit Tigers walked out at Shibe Park, Philadelphia; the time when a habitual malcontent named Dave Fultz organized a players' fraternity in 1913 and the time, before the turn of the century, when dissatisfied athletes formed the Brotherhood League.

The Brotherhood was the first experiment in socialized baseball when the players, disgruntled with generally low wages, went out almost as a unit and began to promote their own ball games with the understanding that all profits would be divided equally among the men and all matters of discipline would be judged by a players' council. Only, when the Brotherhood came to audit their ledgers, there were no profits to divide and the athletes were unwilling to assume liability for the losses. So they hustled back to their original employers in the National League, and begged, please, to be rehired at the old wage scale and very happy to get it back.

In recent years the major league clubs have been taken over by such rich and sporty owners as Tom Yawkey, Powell Crosley, the Wrigleys, Sam Breadon, Alva Bradley, the Comiskeys, the Rupperts, the Stonehams, et celers, who boosted the athletes pay in an effort to outsalary each other and thus grab the best workers. So any attempt to unionize the players would meet with some rugged opposition from the DiMaggios, Foxxes, Groves, Derringers and Gehringers who are drawing lavish wages for comparatively easy work.

I doubt that these wealthy athletes would submit to having their monthly checks amputated in order to better wage and work conditions among the inept stumblebums who are just guys named Joe in the box score summaries. And a union of just stumblebums would strike no terror into the magnates' hearts, because if they struck, the magnates could go out in the factories and farms and flush up more stumblebums, equally competent. And this would make the original stumblebums very mad at their union for losing them their jobs and presently there wouldn't be a union any more.

Fultz Went Over To The Enemy

THE STRIKE of the Detroit Tigers in 1912 was not, technically, a union movement. The players walked out because Ban Johnson, a peaky and obdurate old Roman, plastered Ty Cobb with a money fine and suspension for crawling into the grandstand and knocking a pestiferous fan stiff with one punch. The Detroit team maintained that this was a particularly obnoxious fan who deserved to be Christianized and therefore the plaster was unfair. But Johnson held that even an obnoxious customer must not be knocked stiff and so the fine and suspension stood.

So the Tigers reported in uniform next day and partook of batting practice so as to prevent the management from substituting strike breakers from the surrounding twilight teams. But just before the press box bell sounded for the game, they walked off in a body, hung their uniforms in the locker room and retired to the stands to watch the fun.

Hughie Jennings was managing the Tigers at the time and he promptly recruited a fresh team by calling for volunteers among the bleacher fans. The score was 26 to 2 in favor of the Athletics and it was voted a hilarious afternoon by all—and don't you think it would be suitable if the Braves and Red Sox would sometimes hang up their uniforms and let the Boston fans take a whack at their jobs now and then?

So that brings us to Dave Fultz and what, in 1913, was to all intents, a labor union empowered to call strikes, levy tribute on its members and bargain collectively. Only, at the height of the movement Fultz went over to the enemy by accepting the presidency of the International League and promptly put the salary screws on his old union mates with fines and suspensions. Which only goes to prove that ambition had been fomenting in Fultz' bosom to be up among the magnates even when he was acting as spokesman for the discontented masses and that, secretly, he was yearning to join those whom he affected to despise. He had mistaken his own envy for honest principle and had hated the magnates for being what he craved to be himself. So, when his chance came, he deserted the discontented masses and helped, by his rules and discipline to make them more discontented than ever. Quod Erat Demonstrandum!

Craig Wood Forced Out Of Goodall With Injury

By BILL GRIMES

FRESH MEADOW C. C., Flushing, N. Y., May 22—One of the early arrivals here this morning was Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Winchester, winner of the recent Big 8 invitation at The Country Club.

Almost a decade has elapsed since "Jug" McSpaden last played the Fresh Meadow Country Club, where the fourth annual Goodall Round Robin Invitation opens this afternoon. So, naturally, the Winchester pro was anxious to brush up on his knowledge of the layout, which is a stiff test of golf for even the cream of the professional crop.

REVIVES OLD MEMORIES

"I haven't been out here for nine years," declared "Jug" this morning, while waiting for his caddies to return with the 50 or 60 balls he had hit down the 10th fairway, which is the practice area. "But, just as soon as I spotted that trap to the right of the 18th green, the entire layout seemed to come back to me. I can see Gene Sarazen in that trap as clearly as though the final round of the 1932 U. S. open had been played yesterday.

"I was only 23 and I guess I couldn't have been much of a golfer for when the final results were up on the board, I was an even 20 strokes behind Sarazen."

"How do you like meeting Ben Hogan in the first round?" asked this roving reporter.

"That's O. K. with me," replied "Jug." "In fact, it may be a real break. This is going to be a tough grind for me. As you know, I'm a teaching pro and my legs might fail me while attempting to play seven rounds in three and a half days. Fortunately, this isn't a hilly course. And, it's probably just as fortunate that Winchester is."

Hundreds of golf enthusiasts trekked out here this morning to watch the Goodall contestants warm up.

About an hour before the first round got under way this afternoon, the pros staged a golf lesson with Horton Smith as the M. C.

The featured threesome of the first round were Lawson Little, Gene Sarazen and Corp. Ed "Porky" Oliver, who is on leave from Camp Dix. Little, Sarazen and Oliver tied for the U. S. open crown last year but the last named was disqualified for teeing off before his starting time.

Paul Runyan, and his "little poison" putter, the colorful Jimmy Demaret and Jimmy Hines, comprised the second threesome, followed by Tony Penna, handsome Dick Metz and Vic Ghezzi, a newcomer to the Goodall Round Robin Invitation. Then, Jimmy Thomson king of the long hitters, Clayton Heafner and Horton Smith were to receive the "go" signal and the final threesome will be Ben Hogan, "Jug" McSpaden and Willie Goggin.

HOGAN WON LAST YEAR

Goggin was an 11th hour replacement, taking over from Slammin' Sam Snead who withdrew because of an injured back.

During the seven rounds the contestants will play 14 matches. The score is figured according to the outcome of each match, for example, if A is three up on B and two up on C, he is credited with five points and his opponents are charged with the number of lost holes. But if C finished one one up on B he is credited with one point, which would give him a net of minus one, while against B would be posted minus four.

BULLETIN

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, Flushing, L. I., May 22—Craig Wood, winner of the Masters' Tournament at Augusta, Ga., injured his back in a practice round here and was obliged to withdraw his entry from the fourth annual Goodall Round Robin Invitation, which started here this afternoon.

Tony Penna, Akron, O., who was the medalist in the San Francisco match play championship and who finished fourth in the Goodall in 1939, was selected to replace Wood.

SWEETHEART,—"Jug" McSpaden, pro from Winchester, gives good luck putter fine embrace before he starts against Ben Hogan and Willie Goggin in the Goodall Open. "Jug" won Big Eight championship at The Country Club, Brookline, last week. He defeated Sam Snead, Jimmy Thomson, Jimmy Demaret, Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Craig Wood and Lawson Little and is intent on doing same today

BROWNS PACK LUSTY PUNCH

By JOE CASHMAN

If the last place Browns are the weakest club in the American League, President Will Harridge may well be proud of his circuit.

All seven hostile clubs have now appeared at the Fens and none have flashed more power than the Mound City macers showed as they made their season's debut here.

Among other things, they performed the amazing feat of making seven hits off the ancient Mike Ryba good for a total of 21 bases. That's averaging a triple a thump. Only one of the belts was a three-bagger, but four were home runs by four different guys.

Not bad for a club that is in the basement.

But, for all their hitting, they dropped the decision 8 to 6, and fell deeper into the cellar, what with the surprising Athletics winning again.

"It may be that we are the worst club in the league," chirps Manager Freddie Haney, "but I'll never believe it until, if ever, it is proven.

"Spotty pitching sent us off to a bad start and then the injury jinx began to hound us.

"Honestly, I haven't nine able-bodied men to field here.

HOPES FOR FIRST DIVISION

"George McQuinn has more license to be in a hospital than to be playing first base. He strained his groin in a game in Washington and he still suffers severely when he swings at a ball. I had to call him back into action because I had nobody else to play the bag.

"Walter Judnich is another cripple who is playing. He hurt his arm in New York.

"Both my shortstops, Johnny Berardino and Alan Strange, are on the hospital list. So are Chet Laabs and Joe Grace.

"So, you see, we are in a pretty bad way.

"We'll be a different club I'm sure when we're back at full strength. The pitching has been improving and the acquisition of Rick Ferrell has strengthened us greatly back of the bat. I still entertain first division hopes."

UPHILL FIGHT

Haney may be aiming a bit high, but from the way the strong clubs in the junior circuit have been getting knocked off by the weak sisters this spring, it would seem that anything could happen in the wheel this season.

There certainly isn't a standout club in the race.

The Red Sox, for example, despite losing five straight recently and falling into the second division, are back in third place as a result of winning two games in a row, and they have lost only two more games than the pace-setting Indians.

The natives' great asset is their courage. They never know when they're licked. And when they do suffer a defeat, no matter how heartbreaking, they forget all about it immediately and are back full of fight the next afternoon.

A less courageous club might

Cards Keep Deflating Dodgers

By Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals, carving with as much delicacy as so many carpenters, have completed a serious operation for the removal of excess wind from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

A few stitches remain to be taken, but there is no chance that the patient will recover in St. Louis, because even a victory in today's final game of the western trip wouldn't save Brooklyn from returning to the banks of the Gowanus canal in second place in the National League.

The Cardinals clubbed the Dodgers into their fifth straight defeat yesterday 9-3 with a vicious 13-hit assault. The chief slasher was a young outfielder named Herman Coaker Triplett, who once failed to meet the dubious standards of the Chicago Cubs and passed to the Cardinals through the American Ass'n.

Coaker treated the Cardinals to a home run, a single with the bases loaded and an extraneous double and single. Meanwhile Harry Gumbert, whom the Redbirds acquired last week from the New York Giants, kept nine Brooklyn hits satisfactorily scattered to go the route and attain his second victory in a St. Louis uniform.

TIGERS DROP AGAIN

While the Cardinals were emphasizing their intention of controlling the senior circuit, Bob Feller pitched the Cleveland Indians back to victory and security in the American League.

In the payoff inning the Tribe loaded the bases on a single and two walks. A fly and two singles scored three runs. Chase walked another man to load the bases again and a bunt against Bill Zuber scored the last run.

The five-game winning streak of the second place Chicago White Sox was snapped by the Philadelphia Athletics, whose 7-6 victory was their fourth in a row. The game included six home runs and a two-run round-tripper by Wally Moses in the ninth settled the issue.

The New York Yankees knocked the Detroit Tigers out of third place with a ten-inning 5-4 victory achieved on a two-run rally that tied the score in the ninth and Red Rolfe's triple scoring the winning run in the tenth. The Yanks made 14 hits to 7 for the Tigers, who were held hitless in the two final frames by Rookie Charley Stanceu. Pat Mullin hit a two-run homer for Detroit in the seventh.

The New York Giants solved the pitching magic of Bucky Walters and cuffed the Cincinnati Reds 6-3 in 10 innings. After being shut out for eight frames, they bunched three doubles and a single to tie the count in the ninth and shoved over three more runs in the 10th. Three pitchers held the Reds to six hits.

The Cubs pounced on the Phillies 7-3 with a grand-slam homer by Bill Nicholson in the fifth and a combination four-hit pitching job by Paul Erickson and Jake Mooty.

N. E. Loop Opens Season Sunday

The newly organized New England Baseball League gets off to a busy start Sunday with a complete program of four games scheduled.

Manchester, N. H., plays at Lynn; Quincy at Woonsocket, R. I., Fall River at Pawtucket, R. I., and New Bedford at Worcester.

Most prominent players in the league are Hugh Mulcahy, Brighton who was on the pitching staff of the Philadelphia Phillies before he was drafted into the Army, and Johnny Broaca, bespectacled former New York Yankees' and Cleveland Indians' hurler.

Mulcahy is to come from Camp Edwards to pitch for the Lynn Frasers. Broaca has been signed by the Worcester club.

"HI-YAY, JOE"—Ex-Red Soxers who couldn't pitch according to Fenway standards but who seem to be doing all right with St. Louis Browns. Left to right: Elden Auker, who won 17 games for Browns last year; Fritz Ostermueller, waiting for the double-header season before he gets going, and Denny Galehouse, who pitched one-hitter against flying A's and followed it up with four-hitter against Yankees.

Lefty Sullivan Hurls for Braves

PITTSBURGH, May 22—In a desperate attempt to break a losing streak that has stretched through four games and dropped his Braves from fourth place to seventh, Manager Casey Stengel is sending Lefty Joe Sullivan after the Pirates this afternoon.

Today's game not only concluded a two day stay here in Pittsburgh but it ended the Braves initial swing around the circuit.

A review of this trip shows little to cheer about except for the unbelievable hitting of those two ancient youngsters—Johnny Cooney and Lloyd Waner. The latter is hitting for .519 and Johnny .319.

PITCHING COLLAPSE

As for pitching the less said the better. This one strong forte of the Braves for years has suddenly fallen apart. Since Bill Posedel beat the Giants in New York not a Braves pitcher has gone the distance.

The hitting has been fairly good but the chuckers can't hold leads. Errickson, Johnson and Javery lost a fire-run lead between them Tuesday, and Wednesday the Tribe sent Jim Tobin away to a four-run lead in the first but he dissipated it in the sixth and the Braves would up on the short end of an 8 to 4 score against the Pirates.

HELPLESS AGAINST BAUERS

Stengel's gang started impressively when Moore walked and Waner beat out a bunt. Rowell West followed by strolling to fill the sacks. Miller chased two more runs home with a single and after Dahlgren went out, Sisti walked to again load the sacks. Berres fanned, but Tobin was given a base on balls, forcing in West with the fourth run.

From that time on the Braves were helpless against Bauers, who succeeded Hutchinson, and Wilkie, the rookies who finished up.

Mack Cashes in On Another Terry Reject

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (AP)—Giant castoffs seem to have ways of making good elsewhere and big Tom Ferrick promises to be no exception.

Every so often comes along some swell young ball player who has been turned down by New York Manager Bill Terry because he didn't show signs of a world beater right off.

There's first sacker Frank McCormick of the world champion Cincinnati Reds and George McQuinn of the St. Louis Browns, just to mention a couple.

MACK HAS REJECT

Now it's Connie Mack's turn to get a Terry rejection, and from Ferrick's exploits so far the Athletic pilot may have a 22-carat performer in the relief pitching department, woefully undermanned for years.

Ferrick worked two games as the Macks swept this week's series with the league-leading Cleveland Indians, stopping the enemy cold each time.

He got credit for winning the opener which Johnny Babich had started, then after one day's rest put on a heroic fireman's act to protect a 6-5 score Bump Hadley built up.

Taking over in the eighth with two men on base and none out, the 25-year-old righthander kept the Indians from scoring that inning, then mowed 'em down one-two-three in the final stanza.

REPORTS ARM O. K.

Tom quit an up-state New York seminary for a try in Terry's 1939 training camp. Farmed out, he turned up with an injured arm and was released. Last year he played around New York for sandlot teams, finally landing with the famed Brooklyn semi-pro Bushwicks where Connie Mack found him.

Insisting his arm had healed, Ferrick volunteered to pay his own way to training camp for a chance with another major league outfit. But he didn't have to because Connie needed pitchers too badly.

Fairly impressive in California, Tom hurled one or two convincing sessions on the way home and each time he's relief pitched this season the performance has been more than satisfactory.

Vote to Extend N.H. Race Betting

CONCORD, N. H., May 22—(AP)—The House ways and means committee voted here to submit to the House a unanimous report favoring the extension of legalized horse race betting in New Hampshire for two years.

The report will be turned over to the House next Tuesday and spirited debate was anticipated on the measure.

The Senate has already approved extension of pari mutuel betting for a 10-year period.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

COAKER TRIPLETT, Cardinals—Made four hits, including homer and single with bases loaded, to beat Dodgers.

BOB FELLER, Indians—Pitched 11-inning, four-hit shutout against Senators.

KEN O'DEA and BOB CARPENTER, Giants—Former knocked in tying runs with pinch double in ninth inning and latter pitched hitless ball for two frames in relief for 10-inning triumph over Reds.

RED ROLFE, Yankees—Tripled in 10th inning to score deciding run against Tigers.

WALLY MOSES, Athletics — Homered with one on in ninth inning to beat White Sox.

BILL NICHOLSON, Cubs — Hit home run with bases loaded in fifth inning to whip Phillies.

STAN SPENCE, Red Sox—Delivered two-run pinch homer in seventh to spark victory over Browns.

VINCE DIMAGGIO, Pirates—Hit homer to set off slugging explosion that beat Braves.

Gomez Must Produce To Stay With Yanks

NEW YORK, May 22 (INS)—It was damp and chilly there under the stands but the skinny, good-natured guy didn't seem to mind it. Some one asked the long guy:

"How many are you going to win this year, Lefty?" The long guy didn't look up. He tugged at the tongue of his spiked shoe and answered quickly: "All I possibly can, brother. All I possibly can."

And as you stood there in the dimness and dampness, hard by the steps leading to the playing field of the former world's champions, it was hard to realize all that has happened to the lean guy—the goofy guy—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez in the few years which have fled.

It seems only a few days ago that you were writing of Lefty Gomez, the magnificent; Lefty, the El Goofo of a great baseball team; Lefty, whose southpaw slants won 26 games and lost only five in '34; Lefty, who won 21 and dropped 11 in '37; the El Goofo who collected 18 wins and only 12 defeats in '38—and who has been in a tailspin ever since.

LAST STAND

Lefty, whose future in the game that once called him great, depends on what he does this season. This is it, men. Gomez either makes good this season or he goes on the chopping block to the highest bidder. He has had two bad years in succession, winning 12 and losing eight in '39 and winning three games and losing three last season. So it's three strikes and you're out for Lefty if he doesn't come through this time.

So far, as Lefty pointed out, he's on a par with last year.

"Heck, I'm even already," he laughed. "I've won three and lost three so far and the other day I got two hits, brother."

There's your answer to Lefty's attitude toward his most important season in 13 years with the Yankees. He's confident he'll come back and is facing the future with the same happy, hopeful smile and youthful buoyancy that has endeared him to his fans and fellow players.

Lefty won his first two games this year, dropped the next three, including a three-hitter to the Browns, and then won his third victory over the same team, holding them to six hits last Sunday. "I've got most of my stuff back," he said, "and I'm not as wild as I used to be. I was chiefly a speedballer in my good years but don't expect to get all that back."

McCARTHY HOPEFUL

Manager Joe McCarthy said: "Lefty ought to go pretty good. I don't know just how well because it's early yet, but he's looked O. K. except for streaks of wildness. He's walked seven and fanned eight in a couple of games so far."

Lefty, Dickey, the other half of the history-making battery of the late '30's wasn't so cynical.

"He was terrible last year," said Bill, "but he's been wonderful this year. He's swift and his curve is well-controlled too."

Gomez says the back-ache which caused all his trouble in the last two seasons has disappeared because of regular massage and plenty of golf and dieting.

"Starve myself? Sure I did, but I figured it was better to starve voluntarily than to wind up on the breadline, where I was heading," was the way El Goofo summed it up.

Three More Qualify For 500-Mile Race

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22 (INS)—The qualified field for the 500-mile Indianapolis auto race on Memorial Day was raised to 21 today after three more drivers made good on test drives. This left 12 places open for the 33-car field.

Among the latest qualifiers was Kelly Petillo 1935 winner of the 500, who turned in an average speed of 124.417 miles per hour. The other qualifiers were Tommy Hinnershitz 121.021 mph, and Paul Russo with 125.217 mph.

LOUIS AND CONN SHOULD WIN RING BOUTS BY KAYOS

IF YOU LIKE parlays, you should take Joe Louis to win over Buddy Baer by a knockout in Washington tomorrow night, and Billy Conn to belt Buddy Knox out of the picture in their tussle in Pittsburgh. It is a cinch that each of these bouts will be over inside of ten rounds.

BILLY CONN

The limelight, of course, will be on the Louis-Baer affair in the Capital. Mike Jacobs told me in New York last week he expects the match to draw $100,000.

Between government and defense business Washington has become a Klondike. There is plenty of fresh money in the city, and as everyone is seeking excitement the Louis-Baer tussle has made a broad appeal.

Louis has done his part to ballyhoo the bout. He has been doing his training in the Capital for two weeks, and has furnished more than average thrills to camp followers. On one occasion the "Brown Bomber" was stretched out on the floor by one of his sparring partners, and was overcome with embarrassment as he scampered to his feet and rubbed the resin off his trunks and gloves.

This incident proved that Louis still has a fragil chin, and that one of these evenings when he is opposed by a young, aggressive puncher that he will be blasted right out of the ring.

BUDDY BAER has never faced Louis' terrific punching, and so he may be excused when he says he will win. It would also be rather unorthodox for a heavyweight title contender to announce before a tussle he expected to get beaten, and that he was merely going through with the match to get the loser's share of the purse.

In his heart, I do not believe Baer feels he can conquer Louis. Buddy knows he does not measure up to Brother Max of a few years ago as a fighter, and he realizes how the elder member of the fighting Baers was splattered all over the ring by the cool, calculating, sharpshooting Louis.

Baer has the hope, like all other contenders, that he will either land a lucky punch, or that Louis will receive an injury which will make it necessary for the referee to halt the bout.

One should not overlook the fact Louis takes a great physical risk every time he enters the ring. There is always the danger he will break a hand, suffer a cut over his eyes, or meet with some other mishap that would cost him his championship.

The late Tex Rickard was considered the greatest gambler in sport, but Tex would never permit a champion to take the chances Louis does in his barnstorming tours. When Rickard had a titleholder under contract, he only allowed him to appear in key matches that were certain to draw record gates.

"I don't want a champion under my promotion to lose his title on a fluke," Rickard once told me. "I have seen too many things go wrong in so-called soft matches."

Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club and John Roxborough and Julian Black of the Louis management have shown themselves to be natural gamblers. They have risked Louis' million-dollar title in all parts of the United States and are still calling the turns right.

BAER WILL MAKE an easy object for Louis to hit, and the records prove that when Joe can reach an opponent with his devastating punches that he wins by a kayo. Now that he is coming closer to his important bout with Billy Conn, Louis will wish to win over Baer as quickly as possible. He will try and end the battle inside of six rounds and has better than an even chance of doing so.

Louis will then take things easy for a week after which he will return to the training camp to get ready for his 15-round world's heavyweight championship go with Conn in the Yankee Stadium, New York, on June 18.

It is to be regretted that Mike Jacobs cannot get some of the European dictators into the ring at Griffith Stadium tomorrow night, and compel them to do a little fighting with their fists. I do not believe the dictators would care for a fight in which they personally were obliged to take some of the physical risks. I have frequently seen bullies and so-called tough fellows prove rank quitters when someone their own size punched them on the nose.

BILLY CONN will make his final appearance before his home town supporters in Pittsburgh tomorrow night against Buddy Knox before he moves into New York to get ready for Louis.

Conn, of course, will knock out Knox who is a wide open type of boxer and very easy to hit. Two or three years back Knox would have made things interesting for Conn.

The passing years have deprived Knox of some of his speed and hitting power.

The bout is expected to draw $60,000. This will give Conn one of his largest purses. Billy truthfully says he hasn't got a dime. He has had frequent postponements of bouts and has been obliged to pay large training expenses. Conn also lives on a scale of $1000 a month, while a share of his earnings go to Billy Ray, his manager.

Conn is still a hungry fighter, and so is a real menace to Louis.

B. A. A. Grind Elite Enter Salisbury Run

A great field is being lined up by Johnny Semple in his dual capacity of manager-competitor of the fifth annual Salisbury Beach Marathon Memorial Day, from Lawrence to the sea. Eight of the first 10 finishers in the B. A. A. Marathon of this year are entered, headed by Pawtucket's pride, Leslie Pawson.

The octet, and their positions in the B. A. A. race, are Leslie Pawson, first; Johnny Kelley, second; Don Heinicke, third; Gerard Cote, fourth; Andre Brunelle, seventh; Johnny Semple, eighth; Paul Donato, ninth, and Joe Kleinerman of the Millrose A. A., 10th.

Only Joe Smith of the North Medford Club and Fred McGlone of the Norfolk Y. M. A., fifth and sixth, respectively, in the Boston jaunt, have yet to file their entries.

Jack Haley Looms As Double Winner In New Englands

The two-mile and half-mile runs probably will be the outstanding events in the New England intercollegiate track and field meet to be held Friday and Saturday at Briggs Field in Cambridge.

The two-mile will bring together Francis Maloney of Holy Cross, the defending champion, and Mike Prohodsky of Northeastern, the indoor I. C. 4A two-mile champ.

Prohodsky's time of 9:48.3 stands as the best for this event, but these figures mean very little, since both Prohodsky and Maloney are capable of doing better.

Eddie Parker of Northeastern and Lester Nichols of Rhode Island State, each credited with 9:52.8, will be strong contenders for top honors in this event.

Other capable two-milers include Bill Giza of Wesleyan, Maine's Dwight Moody and Kenneth Taylor of Rhode Island State and Robert Wheaton of Connecticut, who have all bettered ten minutes in the two-mile run, and must be considered.

Bob Carroll of Northeastern and Jack Haley of Holy Cross will be outstanding performers in the half-mile. Carroll has the best time with 1:57 for this year, while Haley has done 1:57.2.

Considering Haley's time in this event, and his 4:24.6 in the mile run, it appears that he might have an excellent chance of capturing both events.

Francis Kelley, also of Holy Cross, whose performances have been over-shadowed by his teammate, is another outstanding threat.

Several other athletes including John Wallace of Holy Cross, Dave Nickerson of Bates, Bob Dixon of Rhode Island, Howard Ehrlenbach of Maine, and Jim Harvey of Rhode Island are close to, or below, the two minute mark.

ELI, CRIMSON TRACKSTERS ANNUAL DUEL

Preliminary dope sheets on the 48th annual Harvard-Yale track meet Saturday at New Haven give the hosts about a 20 point margin.

Coach Jakko Mikkola's Crimson team has made a great record considering that he didn't have much material to begin the season. Capt. Don Donahue and soph Doug Pirnie of Concord have been consistent double winners in the hurdles and the sprints to give a backbone for the rest of the team.

This season the Crimson has defeated B. C, Holy Cross, Northeastern and the B. A. A. in informal meets.

Harvard holds a 76 1-3-58 2-3 win over Dartmouth and last Saturday they finished in third place behind Penn and Princeton in the Heptagonal meet at Princeton.

Trying to figure a Yale-Harvard meet ahead of time often backfires, but this year Yale seems certain to cop nine of the 15 events.

Harvard is banking its hopes on the continuance of great work by sophs who have given greater balance to the team this year. The most interesting events should be the sprints.

Bob Owen, the Elis leader who has done 9.7 in the century, should nose out Harvard's Pirnie in a close race. Pirnie is favored to reverse the order in the 220-yard dash. Don Donahue, Harvard's great captain and holder of the college high timber topping event, may set up new standards in both of the hurdles.

A Real Mr. X

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 22 (AP)—Sam Butz, sports editor of Jacksonville Times-Union, told how he received three different spellings of a baseball player's name from the player himself and then:

"So we finally asked the manager how his contract was signed and he said with an X. And that ended that."

NAVY YARDERS FACE DRAFTEE IN PARK LOOP

'll be the Army vs. the Navy at Erry Park, Charlestown, tonight hen the St. Catherine nine plays ast to the Navy Yard A. A. in ne of the four games on the Bosn Park League schedule.

For Manager Joe McCarthy of te Saints plans to draft Pitcher ister Kelley from Ft. Devens t do the twirling against the Navy ard club.

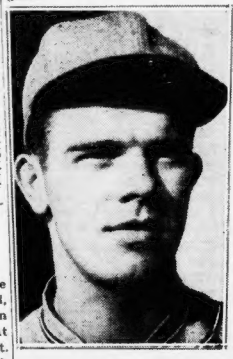
This will be the second time this ear that Kelley has felt the force o the draft. Last Feoruary his umber popped up in Uncle Sam's ldiery and he moved into Ft. Devens for Army duty. Tonight Manager McCarthy has made arrngements to send the ycung solder into the line-up for mound uty.

Kelley, a clever right hander, who reportedly is in fine trim for this itching assignment, is no stranger to Park League followers or St. Catherine fans. Last year, the 22-year-old hurler won seven games while dropping four in this senior loop.

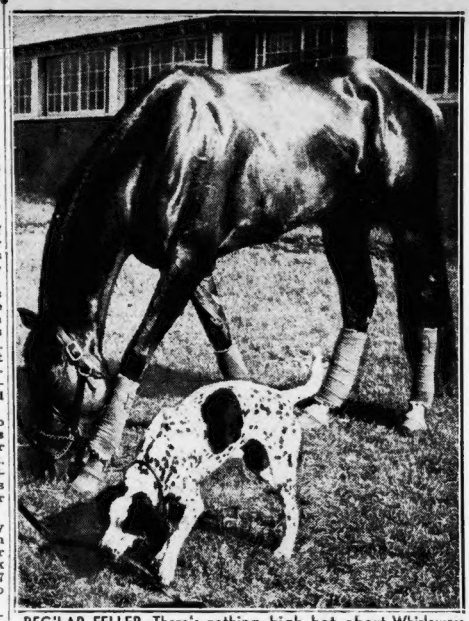
Three years ago he practically pitched the Saints to a pennant in the old Hub League. As the star moundsman in this minor Park Department circuit Kelley won 17 straight games, mixing three no hitters in this string.

The Mayor Tobin Club of Roxbury, having moved out of the cellar in the Western division, will try to put the Hellenics back into another losing streak at Cleveland Circle, Brighton, while at Rogers Park the Artesani Club takes on the Roslindale Town Club.

Completing the schedule the Linehan Club of South Boston, improving with every contest, will meet the Hurley Club at Eustis st., Roxbury. The Hurley Club, after getting off to a speedy start, slumped badly but hopes to hit another winning streak in this game.



CIVIES AGAIN—Lester Kelly, who doffs army uniform tonight to pitch for St. Catherine's Club against Navy Yard A. A. at Barry Playground, Charlestown, the home field of both clubs.



REG'LAR FELLER. There's nothing high hat about Whirlaway, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. Here the greatest living horse goes on foraging expedition with his stable pet, Boogie, a Dalmatian pup, at Belmont. Whilaway's next big shot will be the Belmont Futurity, June 7.

Browns Show Lusty Punch

have folded up when the Brownies were skinning the hide of Ryba with homers.

The Sox, however, never turned a hair.

When homers by Lucadello and Clift had fashioned three St. Louis runs, the score was only tied, for the Cronins put over single tallies in the first, second and fourth frames.

The invaders went two runs in front in the fifth when Rick Ferrell and Johnny Allen hit successive pitches out of the park to chase Ryba.

The Hose answer to that came in the seventh, when they staged a three-run rally to drive Allen to the showers. Johnny Peacock doubled and Stan Spence, batting for Bill Fleming, homered into the right field bull pen. A walk by Finney, Teddy Williams' fourth hit and a single by Foxx accounted for the third run.

Skeeter Newsome singled and Peacock was safe on a sacrifice, when a futile attempt was made to force Skeeter at second. Pitcher Newsome then sacrificed, DiMag hit a long fly and Finney singled.

BUD BAER FIGURES RIGHT HAND WILL KNOCK CROWN OFF LOUIS

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The training grind ended, Champion Joe Louis and Challenger Buddy Baer loafed today, but each summoned up enough energy to make advance claims to a knockout victory in tomorrow night's 15-round heavyweight championship bout.

"Baer will be as tough as anyone I've fought, but I expect to knock him out in less than 10 rounds," Louis said.

"Buddy is big and can punch, so it ought to be a good battle."

From Buddy, training at nearby Olney, Md., came this comment:

"I'm in better condition than ever before. I think I can get to Louis with my right, and if I do I'll be the next champion."

EXPECT AT LEAST 30,000

In the popular mind, Louis ruled about a 6-1 choice to defend his crown successfully for the 17th time. There was little wagering in evidence, however, but the betting market may pick up with the arrival of New York fans. Promoter Mike Jacobs looked for an invasion from Manhattan, numbering about 6000.

Jacobs' crew was to go to work immediately after today's Washington-Cleveland game on the job of converting Griffith Stadium into a fight arena. Accommodations will be available for 50,000 spectators for Washington's first heavyweight championship bout, but indications were that the crowd would not exceed 30,000.

BAER HOLDS 36-POUND EDGE

Louis and Baer took on sparring partners in their final workouts yesterday, and later devoted about 30 minutes each at the punching bags. Their schedules today call for light exercises and walking jaunts.

The champion and challenger will weigh at the offices of the District of Columbia boxing commission tomorrow. Louis probably will tip the scales at his regular fighting weight of 202 pounds, some 36 pounds less than Baer.

Angel Pins Talun Twice

Marcel Tillet, "The Angel," successfully defended his heavyweight wrestling crown, taking the second and third falls from the giant Wladyslau Talun, Poland, in the final bout of the season before 6500 last night at the Arena.

The 6 feet 8 inches Pole employed The Angel's own method as he vanquished the Frenchman in the first encounter with a bear hug and top body press in 9:11. The Angel scored the second fall when the referee counted Talun out of the ring in 4:25 and took the deciding fall in 5:10 with a toe hold.

In the other bouts, Steve Casey drew with George Macricostas, Ben Morgan drew with Leo Numa, Pete Baltran pinned Joe Maynard, Lord Albert Mills defeated Abe Kashey and Zeus Wilcheski downed Cowboy Govro.

Ex-Champs Fight In Somerville

Former state champions in five divisions will compete for class honors tonight in the All Star boxing show of the Somerville Lions Club to be conducted at the Somerville High School gym.

Heading the list of title-holders will be middleweight Sal Cesario, North End, and Steve Bomal, Lowell, in the 135-pound class.

In the 147-pound class, Mike Cocozza, Haverhill, and Newton Johnny Daley, former state champ, appear to have the edge over other rivals.

Francis Doyle, former state champ from Roxbury, and Jackie Hurd, Revere, loom as the cream of the featherweights.

In the heavyweight division, Chuck Prendible, Charlestown, N. E. champion; Pat Devine, former title-holder from Cambridge; Johnny Fitzpatrick, Arlington, and Paul Pino, Boston, offer a fairly even fight for class title.

EDEN HINTS BRITISH-FRENCH WAR

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned the Vichy government today that Britain will strike "the enemy wherever he may be found" and some qualified sources immediately took that to mean an "undeclared state of war" against France. Eden charged that Vichy had "embarked on a course which must place the resources and territories of France increasingly at the disposal" of Germany. If France pursues her "declared policy of collaboration," British blows will fall "without any distinction between occupied and unoccupied territory," he declared.

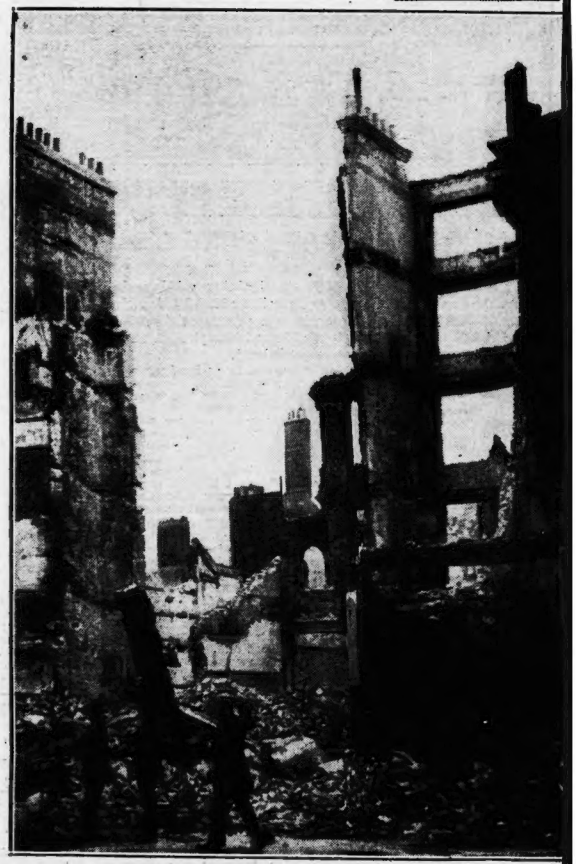
FAIR RAIN CLOUDY SHOWERS



Heroes—Silhouetted against the roaring furnace that once was a proud building, two of London's heroic fire-fighters battle to prevent the spread of flames to adjoining structures. Nazi incendiary bombs were blamed for the blaze.

"Ayes" Got It

On the night of May 10, the time singled out by the German Luftwaffe to give its attention to the administrative heart of London, the famed "aye" lobby of the House of Commons was blasted . . . and this (above) is the result.

"Belly-Skid"

With one wheel of the landing gear on his B-10 Martin bomber gone, Lieut. Robert Little brings his ship in for a "belly landing" at Mitchel field. Crew of three baited out before Little landed.
